

CURRENT COMMENT
By
Chester H. Rowell

A DISPATCH from New York last week, about an otherwise unimportant petition to the New York legislature, attracted national attention because it seemed to the uninformed—which included most of the editors—to offer a way of reopening the question of the constitutionality of the Eighteenth Amendment. The petition had found in Jared Sparks' old Life of Gouverneur Morris a letter written in 1804, in which Morris had expressed the opinion that the majority of Congress necessary to submit an amendment was two thirds of all the members elected, and not merely of those present and voting. The Supreme Court had unanimously decided otherwise, but the backers of this petition seemed to think that this utterance of a letter from one of the original signers of the Constitution might reopen the case.

THEY had taken the trouble to read the decision first, they would have discovered that the Supreme Court had already fully considered this point. Also they would have learned the startling consequences involved in their contention if sustained. If this is the law, then slavery is now legal in the United States; women have no right to vote; the income tax is unconstitutional; all the members of the United States Senate are illegally elected, and John W. Davis is now Vice-President of the United States. For all the amendments covering these points were submitted in the same way that the Eighteenth was, and it is invalid, so are they. The Supreme Court, from whose decision there is no appeal, has already refused to accept the whole government of the United States and to nullify all the constitutional progress of the last hundred years, and of course it will not reopen or reverse that decision on the mere citation of a private letter from one of the members of the original convention, expressing his personal opinion.

ANOTHER equally interesting constitutional question has been raised as a part of the same struggle to find a constitutional way to do an unconstitutional thing. Somebody has discovered that twenty-eight states have, at one time or another, asked Congress to call a constitutional convention. Assuming that such an application, once filed, can not be withdrawn and lasts forever, it would only be necessary to have eight more states apply to make the necessary two thirds. Thus the eight wettest states might, by this interpretation, precipitate the nation into a constitutional convention, for the first time since 1787.

IT IS of course wholly improbable that the application of a state for a convention to propose a certain amendment would be successful, still in force after that amendment had been proposed by Congress and ratified by the States. Some of these applications were to propose amendments for an income tax, for the direct election of United States Senators, and for woman suffrage. Their purpose having been accomplished they have certainly expired. So the convention will not be called.

BUT suppose it were! The convention would be elected by states, or by districts, and the majority of the states and districts are dry, as is shown by their election of dry majorities in Congress and in the political conventions of both parties. So, whatever else the convention did, the Eighteenth Amendment would remain unchanged. But what else might such a convention do? How many people would be willing to risk subjecting the whole Constitution of the United States to the risk of revision by a present-day convention? Certainly not the conservatives, who are the chief opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment. There will be no convention called with their consent, to leave prohibition untouched, but to tamper with everything else in the Constitution.

THE average American boy is over three inches taller than his father or grandfather was at the same age, fifty years ago, says Dr. Horace Gray, of Chicago, who has been doing a lot of measuring. If the studies had been made in California, the difference would be even more striking, for the average boy of fifty years ago lived the "simple" and "whole-some" life of the country. He slept in an unventilated room; bathed rarely or never; did not have as good milk or butter nor as much fresh fruit and vegetables as the modern city boy; had most of the year less sunshine; had more work but less exercise; suffered constantly from "colds" and frequently from other diseases, none of which the village doctor or the more frequent grandmother understood; faced much hardship and exposure; had little to stimulate his thought, imagination or enthusiasm; was ignorant and not always sober, and was lucky to live through childhood at all. Those were the "good old days."

POSTPONE SELLING OF NANKING

Albert Dewey Gaines Is Found Guilty of Murder

JURY OUT 3 HOURS AND 17 MINUTES

Verdict of Second-Degree Slaying Seen as Victory By Prosecution, Defense

WILL HELP GOODWIN?

Conviction Will Carry Sentence of From 10 Years To Life in Penitentiary

ALBERT DEWEY GAINES was found guilty of second-degree murder when his jury returned its verdict at 5 p. m., yesterday, after deliberating three hours and 17 minutes.

Prosecution and defense both hailed the verdict as a victory and it was announced that there would be no appeal. The conviction carries a penalty of imprisonment from 10 years to life, which sentence is scheduled to be pronounced against Gaines by Superior Judge James L. Allen next Monday, at 10 a. m.

Official circles regarded the verdict as a compromise on its face, the general sentiment being that the killing of Joseph Patterson was first-degree murder and that Gaines was either guilty of that degree of murder or was wholly innocent of any offense. Court observers expressed the surprise that, while the jurors agreed on Gaines' guilt, they refused to inflict the penalty provided by law for first-degree murder, and compromised upon the sentence for second degree. One court attaché remarked:

"It was a legislative jury. It made law of its own."

Defense Well Satisfied
The defense was well satisfied, it admitted. "We regard the verdict as a victory for the defense," said Attorney O. A. Jacobs, who announced that no appeal would be taken.

Gaines, himself, received the verdict in court with mingled disappointment and joy showing on his face. He smiled at the jurors as they left the courtroom after sparing him from the fate that another jury bestowed upon his co-defendant and alleged fellow conspirator, Philip A. Goodwin.

Courtroom opinion today believed that the Gaines verdict would react favorably upon the prospects of Father Goodwin to evade the gallows. Goodwin's appeal from his death sentence now is before the supreme court and, if it fails, his fight will be taken to Gov. C. C. Young for executive clemency.

In the opinion of District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., such a sentence is likely to be severe. In view of Gaines' criminal record, which contains three felony convictions.

The district attorney, like the defense, was well satisfied with the result of the trial.

"I feel that the verdict justifies our action in bringing this case to trial in the face of opinion, expressed in certain quarters, that the case should have been dismissed," he said.

Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodgett, who prepared the case against Gaines and was associated with West in the prosecution, was content with the verdict.

"Proved Our Case"
"It shows that we proved our case," he said. Blodgett said he believed that Goodwin's punishment, if his conviction stands, will be reduced to equal that of Gaines. West and Blodgett joined in expressing their good feeling toward the jury for "its serious and careful consideration of the case," and voiced admiration of the manner in which Judge Allen conducted the trial.

83-Year-Old Slayer Gets 25 Years

NEVADA, Mo., March 25.—A sentence of 25 years in the state penitentiary was imposed on W. W. Pine, 83, by Judge B. G. Thurman, when the aged man pleaded guilty to a charge of murder here yesterday.

Pine was charged with the killing of A. E. Eklund, of San Diego, who was slain on March 13, following a trip from California to Kansas. When Eklund and Pine reached the Marmaton river, near here, they got into a quarrel and Eklund was killed and his body thrown into the stream, it was said.

Pine will begin his sentence immediately.

MRS. CHAPLIN'S LAWYERS DROP ALIMONY MOVE

Forsee Settlement Out of Court of Sensational Divorce Case

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Following almost three months of bitter legal controversy, settlement out of court of the sensational Chaplin divorce case was foreseen for the first time here today.

Veiled by obscure maneuvers on the part of attorneys for both Lita Grey Chaplin and her estranged husband, Charlie Chaplin, the divorce action of the famous screen couple were an air of secrecy that foreshadowed action of an unexpected nature.

With an announcement by Lloyd Wright, the comedian's attorney, that he would leave at once for New York to consult with Chaplin, counsel for Mrs. Chaplin suddenly announced that no further attempt would be made at this time to secure alimony payment.

At the same time, Lyndell L. Young, chief counsel for Mrs. Chaplin, stated that the amended divorce complaint, which was to have been filed today—the last day on which it can be presented—would not be filed.

A change in plans, which Young said would hasten action in the case, has been made, but what steps are to be taken the attorney refused to say.

"Time and again Chaplin has declared that he will fight the case and vindicate himself and we are going to give him a chance to do so at the earliest possible moment," Young said.

Young declared that the comedian must file an answer to Mrs. Chaplin's divorce bill by April 17, on which day the 90-day period allowed a defendant expires and, unless this action is taken, the case goes to Mrs. Chaplin by default.

"We do not wish to complicate the case by technicalities," Young said. "We have instructed Mrs. Chaplin to drop the alimony phase and we will file our amended complaint when Chaplin makes his answer to the divorce bill."

To file the amended complaint at this time would necessitate the publication of summons all over again, delaying the case for 30 days.

Wright is expected to return from New York in 10 days.

FORD SHIELDED BY DEARBORN EDITOR

DETROIT, Mich., March 25.—Henry Ford directed William J. Cameron, editor of the Dearborn Independent, to retract the attacks on Aaron Sapiro in the Independent if they were wrong, but stick by them if right, Cameron testified in the million dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit today.

AMERICAN CONSUL GIVES EYE WITNESS ACCOUNT OF LOOTING

J. K. Davis Tells of Escape Over Wall and Rescue By Warships

The United Press presents herewith the first eyewitness account of what happened at Nanking when Chinese mobs rioted and looted in the city, shelled the hill where foreigners had taken refuge and finally were themselves shelled by the guns of British and American warships, anchored in the Yangtze river.

By J. K. DAVIS
U. S. Consul at Nanking
SHANGHAI, March 25.—We escaped over the wall.

After both the British and Japanese consulates had been attacked and the consuls reported killed and after the known cold blooded murder of one American missionary (presumably Dr. J. E. Williams, of the Presbyterian university, at Nanking) and the attempted murder of many others, the Chinese police informed us that we would be destroyed unless we could escape. The violence was committed by Nationalist soldiers.

Accordingly our party, including one vice consul (presumably J. Hall Paxton) 11 sailors, nine civilians and two children, escaped under constant fire across country to the Standard Oil company houses on Soocoo Hill, just above the city wall. This place was visible from the river and many Americans and British already had found refuge there.

(The Standard Oil buildings are on top of a hill and adjoining an extremely high wall. To escape from this improvised citadel without getting into that part of Nanking which was being shelled or was otherwise unsafe, the refugees would have to be lowered by ropes over the wall to landing parties awaiting them below.)

Although we were repeatedly robbed and threatened by the Nationalists, the vice consul, the Standard Oil manager and myself managed to keep them out of the house for two hours.

Finally the Chinese broke in. Seeing our numbers, they retired and commenced firing on us. The firing increased, but the American and British warships in the river laid down a protective barrage of shells immediately around the house and we were able to escape over the wall.

The American consulate was entered by the Nationalists and was reported by the Chinese to have been thoroughly looted.

Of the $75,000 deposit, approximately $40 now is earning interest, the report said. The balance of the $125,000 deposit was withdrawn in May 1926.

Members of the committee, including Senator Inman, Senator Thomas Ingram, of Grass Valley, and J. M. Allen, of Yreka, held an executive session yesterday afternoon at which Goodheart and his attorney C. D. Busick, of Sacramento, and State Insurance Commissioner Charles Detrick were present.

Goodheart, it was declared, declined to make any statement under oath upon advice of his attorney.

The committee recommended that the transaction be referred to the attorney general and the state insurance commissioner for prosecution.

VINEYARD SOLD

FRESNO, March 25.—Sale of the Monte Vista vineyard, near here, to Altman Brothers and Friedman, eastern growers and distributors, was announced today by Hayden F. Jones, realtor.

SECOND HONEYMOON COMES TO END IN TRAGIC DEATHS

(By United Press)
DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 25.—The bodies of Guy Waggoner Jr., heir to Texas oil millions, and his wife, the former Dorothy Scott, of Fort Worth, lay side by side in a morgue here today, the culmination of a tragic second honeymoon for the couple.

Mrs. Waggoner died late last night, succumbing to injuries suffered in an automobile crash, which resulted in the death of her husband earlier in the day. Three other members of the party escaped with minor injuries.

The couple were remarried recently in Hollywood, their first marriage in Montague, Tex., having been severed after a few weeks. Mrs. Waggoner came to Hollywood to live with her mother and the romance was given a fresh start when young Waggoner followed and renewed his suit.

Following the second wedding, the Waggoners, in company with Miss Katherine O'Hearn, Vale Henry, of Fort Worth, and Guthrie Garretson, of Dallas, left here for Fort Worth.

Nationalists Loot Homes, Burn School

(By United Press)
SHANGHAI, March 25.—Reports from Nanking received tonight at the U. S. consulate said American women and children at Nanking had been brutally treated by Cantonese troops. Their clothing was torn off, the report said, and they were maltreated.

The report said the theological seminary and the Hillcrest school had been burned.

American and British homes were plundered, the report said, by Cantonese soldiers in uniform. It was believed that all American homes had been thoroughly looted.

The Japanese consulate today reported the Japanese consul general at Nanking safe, but two other Japanese consular officials had been wounded.

Two river steamers, the Kungwo and the Wenchow, were here Sunday morning with 200 foreigners, most of them Americans, aboard. These steamers were to take 20 American missionaries from Ching Ching, where reports indicated the situation was darkening. Looting was going on at Ching Kiang and fires were raging throughout the town.

Deny Massacre Rumors

British and American authorities this evening denied the persistent rumors that 100 Americans and many British civilians had been massacred at Nanking. No definite information was available, however, and it was feared that murder may have been rampant in Nanking.

British Consul General Giles, at Nanking, was rescued this afternoon and brought aboard the British warship Emerald, together with six British marines, who heroically stayed by their wounded fellow countryman until they could bring him out of danger.

Fanned by outbreaks in Nanking, anti-foreign feeling flamed again here today and meager reports from cities in the interior and along the southern coast indicated hatred of the "foreign devils" was growing to dangerous proportions.

The U. S. consul general broadcast a radio warning to all Americans in the danger area, advising them to evacuate at once. Two hundred and fifty U. S. missionaries were reported enroute to Shanghai from Nanking.

Two women and one man were killed in Shanghai when guerrillas fired into the French concessions from the roof of a building.

Authentic reports of the situation in Nanking were lacking, but it was known that British and American citizens had been killed and wounded. Nationalists here charged 2000 Chinese were killed in yesterday's bombardment by American and British warships, but that was believed exaggerated.

Claim Looting By Mobs

The Nationalists said looting in Nanking was done by irresponsible mobs and retreating northern soldiers, not by southern troops.

Dr. J. S. Williams, Shawnee, O., vice president of Nanking university, was the only slain American officially identified.

The U. S. destroyer Preston, conveying refugee ships to the mouth of the Yangtze, was fired on at Chinkiang and repelled with four pound guns, routing the attackers.

No casualties were reported.

Brigadier General Butler arrived in Shanghai today and took command of the American marines.

Brigadier General Butler conferred with Major General Duncan, British commander, reportedly regarding full American participation in holding defense lines. "The marines will do everything necessary to protect American lives and property," Butler told the press today. "It is up to Adm. C. S. Williams to ask for more marines if they are needed. I have not formed any opinion yet."

Replying to a question whether the marines would be stationed along some sector of the front line, Butler reiterated his previous remark. He inspected the marine lines and billets today.

17 Members Dry Force Dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—Reorganization of the northern California prohibition force was under way today, following announcement by E. R. Bohner, administrator, that 17 members of the force had been dismissed.

ADMIRAL HOUGH REPORTS AMERICANS BEGINNING TO LEAVE BATTLE-TORN CITY

CANTONESE TROOPS INSOLENT

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, March 25.—Threatened bombardment of Nanking has been postponed because Americans and other foreigners are coming out of the city. H. H. Hough, at Nanking, reported this today to Adm. C. S. Williams, U. S. Asiatic fleet commander, after earlier announcing plans for bombarding the city.

An insolent message from the Chinese—and the fear that more Americans would be killed—had prompted Hough to threaten a bombardment tonight.

Hough's message was dated 5:50 p. m. Nanking time, and was relayed at 9:32 p. m., Shanghai time, by Williams.

Hough reported "we are postponing further consideration of action to tomorrow." This meant that Nanking would not immediately be declared a military area—a target for the grilling shrapnel which Anglo-American ships had already once poured there to shield harassed foreigners.

Previously Hough had plainly warned his superior, Williams, that the latter at Shanghai probably could not quite appreciate the seriousness of the situation at Nanking. Hough said plainly he feared for Americans' safety and he recounted in the blunt language of the seaman the fact that the Cantonese within the city were insolent and obstinate.

Had Counseled Caution

Williams had counseled caution. Hough was opposed. Steel, he indicated, was what the Chinese needed in their present mood.

Several hours passed and the navy waited anxiously for word that perhaps a terrible bombardment of the open city (converted by decree into a fair target for guns) had occurred. Meantime, however, the Chinese ferocity had cooled.

The stern hand of Hough and his English colleagues had worked like a charm.

In his own words, the situation was this:

"As a result of the strong stand taken today by the forces here, the foreigners are beginning to come out of the city."

"The Japanese are completing their evacuation tonight. The British consul general and the missing marines are now coming off to the H. M. S. Emerald."

"It is now considered a fair possibility that the 120 Americans who took refuge at Nanking university will be evacuating to the ships tonight."

"In view of this, we are postponing further consideration of action to tomorrow."

Consul, Marines Safe

The British consul general, wounded in the Cantonese original onslaught on foreigners, has been taken aboard the British vessel Emerald, along with some British marines, hitherto listed as "missing."

At Chungking, Williams' message said, the situation was "serious" as affecting American nationals and at Hankow it was "tense." Two hundred and fifty American missionaries have sailed from Hankow for Shanghai, he said.

"There are heavy troop movements in Hankow," he said, without mentioning whether the north or south China forces were involved.

In a message dated this afternoon at Shanghai, Admiral Williams described the situation there as follows:

"The Cantonese are consolidating their hold in the Chinese section outside the international settlement and the French concession. There is a small amount of rifle firing where the northerners are resisting."

"A large number of the strikers have returned to work but many are still on strike. The municipal council has issued a proclamation requiring all residents to remain in their houses from 10 p. m. to 4 a. m. Foreigners on shore are strengthening their positions."

Platinum Stolen From University

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., March 25.—Loss of thousands of dollars worth of platinum from the Stanford university laboratories has been reported to police, it was learned here today. According to Victor Minner, assistant professor of metallurgy, the thief has taken the valuable metal in systematic lots and evidently is familiar with the handling and storage of the platinum. Two additional tubes of platinum, worth $70, were taken yesterday.

Many Known Dead At Nanking

NANKING, March 25.—Many American civilians were known to be dead and wounded in this riot torn city today and 155 U. S. nationals still were ashore.

The city was more quiet after yesterday's bombardment by American, British and Japanese warships, but sporadic firing was heard in some sections.

No further attempts were being made to evacuate foreigners remaining in the city. All action will be held up, it was understood, until the arrival of General Chiang Kai Shek, commander of the Cantonese forces.

CHINESE STAND IS UPHELD BY U. S. CABINET

Full Weight of Government Thrown Behind Admiral Williams

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, March 25.—President Coolidge and his cabinet today considered the dangerous Chinese situation in an hour and a half session.

They decided no action from Washington is needed and they upheld Admiral Williams, U. S. fleet commander in Asiatic waters, and his daring confere, Adm. H. H. Hough, at Nanking, whose steel nerve and determination had brought at least a temporary easing of the Nanking situation.

The United States is aroused over the reported massacre of Americans in China.

President Coolidge took charge of the situation today, throwing the full weight of the government behind Minister MacMurray and Admiral Williams in their effort to protect Americans.

110 ARE REPORTED UNACCOUNTED FOR

LONDON, March 25.—An admiralty dispatch sent from Nanking at 9 p. m., Thursday, 24 hours ago—said that 100 Americans at Nanking and 10 Britishers were unaccounted for at that time.

The dispatch said that 31 foreigners were evacuated from Nanking after the shelling started Thursday, at 3:45 p. m., and that later an ultimatum was sent to the commander of the Cantonese troops. This ultimatum resulted in the sending of an escort of the best Chinese troops available to assist in the evacuation of remaining foreigners. Shelling from British and American warships in the harbor was directed at areas uninhabited by civilians, the dispatch said. The Cantonese troops were out of control from the moment of their arrival in Nanking.

American women and children were being evacuated from Hankow and British and American women and children were being evacuated at Ching Kiang aboard destroyers.

ORANGE COUNTY SAVINGS BANK WILL EXPAND

Removal today of the office of Freeman H. Bloodgood and John A. Newcomer, real estate brokers, to rooms in the building of the Abstract and Title Guaranty company, at Fifth and Main streets, revealed the fact that the Orange County Trust and Savings bank has plans for location of its trust department on the second floor of the bank building.

According to a statement by Charles Cotant, president of the banking organization, work will start April 1 on remodeling of a portion of the second floor to adapt it to the purposes of the trust department. Offices occupied by Dr. L. L. Whitson, J. E. Leblis, Blythe-Witter company and Bloodgood and Newcomer will be worked over. The other tenants named will be moved by April 1.

Pointing out that business of the trust department had expanded to the point where more room is necessary, Cotant said that in rearranging the offices up-stairs, special consideration would be given to present location of the offices of Attorney Clyde Bishop, who is now at the head of the department. The banker said that Bishop now is devoting himself almost exclusively to management of the department.

GAINES FOUND GUILTY MURDER SECOND DEGREE

Three of them were weeping after the verdict had been announced and they were dismissed. The ordeal of holding a man's life in their hands was a bit too great for their peace of mind.

Rumors from the jury room were to the effect that the first ballot showed nine to three in favor of conviction of first-degree murder, although one report said the vote was eight to four. The Goodwin jury, last fall, voted unanimously for conviction on the first ballot and had turned in its verdict, carrying the death penalty, in 43 minutes. Yesterday, the Gaines jury retired at 1:43 p. m., and returned its verdict at 5 o'clock.

The jury had five verdicts before it, when Judge Allen completed his instructions and dismissed the thirteenth juror, F. R. Aldrich, of Balboa, whose services were not required. Aldrich, according to law, was admonished not to discuss the case until the verdict had been brought in. This warning balked newspapermen, who were waiting to pounce upon Aldrich and learn how he would have voted.

Cool and at Ease
Gaines, waiting for the jury to come, appeared to be cool and at ease, although strain showed after it was over.

"I'm a fatalist," he told a reporter. "That's why I'm not worrying about it. What is meant to be is bound to be. If I am convicted, then it will be because that was in the cards. This matter of a trial is just like a roulette wheel," he added. "The little ball is whirling round and round. If it drops on a lucky number, I'll go free."

The jury went into its deliberations with the last words of Chief Deputy District Attorney Blodgett ringing in its ears. Blodgett, closing his argument for the prosecution, delivered a cutting analysis of "Gaines at Golgotha."

Dissecting Gaines' description of how he had left Goodwin and Patterson at the secluded scene of the crime, in Santa Ana canyon, and had driven the party's automobile back to the main canyon highway, several hundred yards away, to wait at Goodwin's order, Blodgett attacked the story in several vital points.

Gaines had told that when the party reached the gate to the lane, leading off to the scene of the crime, Goodwin had opened the gate and he had driven through, after which Goodwin re-entered the car. Then, after leaving Goodwin and Patterson at the scene of the crime, Gaines said he had driven back to the highway, Goodwin telling him to go back and close the gate so the stock would not get out, and to wait until Goodwin called to him. Goodwin, so Gaines testified, had said he was going to take Patterson across the river to let him "sober up" at the home of some friends.

Couldn't Drive Across
There was only a foot-bridge across the river, so Gaines could not drive across. Gaines said he waited, dozing in the car, until Goodwin rejoined him, alone, some time later.

Blodgett told the jury that Gaines did not tell the truth about the events in the canyon. If Goodwin opened the gate for Gaines and did not get into the car until Gaines had driven it through the gate, that meant that he closed the gate behind them, said Blodgett. Therefore, he said, Goodwin did not order Gaines to drive back to close the gate. And Goodwin, he said, did not tell Gaines he would call to him, because since Gaines did not intend to drive back to him, there would be no reason for calling. These and other asserted inconsistencies in Gaines' story were held up impressively before the jury as Blodgett made his demand for the death penalty.

'BATTLE OF BROTHERS' WILL BE GIVEN JURY LATE TODAY; THIRD BROTHER DISGUSTED

With an atmosphere of brotherly good will hanging over the courtroom, the trial of Raymond R. Remington, charged with the Olive bank robbery in 1924, was expected to be concluded this afternoon in Superior Judge Homer G. Ames' court.

"The battle of the brothers," as the case has become known, because prosecution and defense attorneys are brothers, drew a good-sized audience today, the Gaines murder trial across the hall having terminated yesterday.

Remington, Folsom convict, was pictured as a "gentleman" robber by prosecution witnesses who identified him as the lone bandit who had held up the Olive bank on June 25, 1924 and escaped with $2400.

Cashier K. V. Wolff, who had been forced by Remington, he said, to hand over the money, related to the jury the incident of the hold-up. He said he had carried on a casual conversation with the bank robber while under the threat of the bandit's weapon.

"If you had come yesterday you would have had better luck. We had more cash on hand then," Wolff said he told Remington, who, said the cashier, conducted the hold-up with extreme courtesy.

Wolff said Remington had come into the bank just at closing time, under the guise of an insurance man, and after talking business with Wolff until the way was clear, had suddenly drawn his gun and demanded the money. Wolff and the assistant cashier, Mrs. Dorothy Dresser, were locked in the bank by the bandit when he departed, and it was some time before they could reach the burglar alarm at the door and sound a warning.

Prosecution Rests

Mrs. Dresser, summoned from her home at Santa Paula to testify, was the last witness called by the state. She was on the stand this morning and when she finished her testimony, the prosecution rested its case.

Wolff, the first witness, was followed by A. J. Lee, Olive barber, who was in the bank when the bandit came in but had gone out before the robbery. He said Remington was the bandit. F. F. Allen, Santa Ana barber, formerly of Olive, also said that Remington was the man he saw hurrying away from the bank after the hold-up. Ida Striegel, manager of a restaurant at Olive, said Remington came into her establishment for a meal shortly before the robbery.

The first move by the defense to combat this identification by prosecution witness was to introduce testimony showing that Remington's present appearance is far different from what it was in June 1924. Merle Turner, manager of the Los Angeles Warehouse company, who employed Remington in June, 1924, said that the defendant was then 30 pounds heavier than now. He is now of darker and more sun-burned complexion, said Turner, who was the first defense witness.

Convict Not Called

Kirk Morgan, Folsom convict, private secretary to the warden of the prison, and one of the most "influential" prisoners there, it is said, will not be called by the defense, as planned. Defense Counsel Franklin G. West announced this today.

Morgan, it was understood, planned to take the stand and testify that he had, himself, committed the Olive bank robbery. He was brought here from Folsom with two other prisoners, Johnny Walker and Frank F. DeClark, for that purpose.

But investigation, it is said, developed that, in June, 1924, Morgan was serving in the Oklahoma state penitentiary, from which he was not released until July 15, 1924. That was that.

Brother Bert West, the prosecuting attorney, and Brother Frank, the defense lawyer, are getting along admirably in their first case on opposing sides, court attaches agreed. There is an absence of wrangling, much to the disappointment of Brother Eddie West, the newspaper reporter who is covering the trial. Brother Eddie is neutral, in the case, and impartially returns each brotherly wink from the attorneys, as one maneuvers to get the other "in a hole."

Mesa P.-T. A. To Sponsor Program

COSTA MESA, March 25.—A plate dinner served to the P.-T. A. board members and friends by Miss N. Taylor, school lunch supervisor, and Mrs. C. A. Wright, Monday, was well attended.

Mrs. F. A. Daley, president, called the business session to order at 1:30 p. m., on April 19, a program will be given at the school auditorium by students of the Julia Lathrop junior high. The program will be of a musical nature. The glee clubs and orchestra of the junior high will participate. A nominal charge will be made. The music section of the visiting school will have half of the receipts and the welfare department of the local P.-T. A. the remaining half to be used for undernourished children where found necessary.

April 9 a group of members will attend the P.-T. A. fourth district meeting to be held in San Juan Capistrano.

The editors of the Herald and the Register were commended for their help in P.-T. A. publicity, a vote of appreciation will be sent.

Mrs. Dodge, welfare chairman, reported 23 children of the school more than 10 per cent underweight, 14 of the number being in the lower grades.

Mrs. E. L. Quinn, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. O. O. Bland, Mrs. E. E. Fling and Mrs. F. E. Straight were appointed as a nominating committee to prepare for the April election of officers.

A corresponding secretary will be added to the list of officers on account of the added growth of organization.

Mrs. L. R. Daughenbaugh has charge of all arrangements for a children's program to be given at the school auditorium the night of April 22.

Santa Ana Finds His Yard Full of 'Bath Accessory'

The place for a bathtub in the bathroom, most anyone would say, but a resident of near Fifteenth and Broadway found his front yard full of tubs last night.

A truck, bound for Los Angeles, was pulling a trailer. The trailer was loaded with bathtubs. Reaching Fifteenth and Broadway, the trailer broke loose and ran up into the yard.

The driver, unaware of the lessening of his load "carried on."

BARBOUR FUNERAL IN L. B. ON MONDAY

Funeral services will be held Monday, at 2 p. m., at the Motley Undertaking parlors, Long Beach, for Henry P. Barbour, who died at his Long Beach home at the age of 77 years.

Due to advanced age and physical infirmities, Barbour was unable to withstand the shock of a cerebral hemorrhage he suffered early last week.

Barbour had been prominent as a real estate operator in Southern California for the past 25 years. He was president of the California Real Estate association in 1923, and served a number of years as president of the Long Beach board. Two years ago he became interested in subdivision development at Laguna Beach and was successful in negotiating the sale of several big tracts there.

Locating in Long Beach in 1904, he conceived and laid out Long Beach harbor. In 1920 he purchased property at Alamitos bay and revived that district. He was one of the principal promoters of Gray's Harbor country, in Washington, which now has two large cities, Hoquiam and Aberdeen. He also was president of the Beach Land company which founded Playa del Rey, and was the promoter of many subdivisions in Los Angeles, Long Beach and other points in Southern California.

CANDIDATES TO BE GUESTS OF CHAMBER

Candidates for city offices and the Santa Ana board of education will be given an opportunity, Monday evening, at the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, to express themselves upon civic questions and perhaps garner a few votes. George Wheeler, chairman of the entertainment committee, said. The meeting is to be held at Ketner's cafe, beginning at 6:30, when dinner will be served.

The speaker of the evening will be L. L. Beeman, teacher of history at the high school and junior college who will discuss the relations of the United States with foreign countries, especially Nicaragua, China and Mexico. Jerry Tannenbaum, violinist; Helen Tannenbaum, violinist; and Beatrice Granas, pianist and reader, will also contribute to the program.

$90,000 ESTATE IS LEFT BY CRAWFORD

The late D. P. Crawford, who died in Orange March 7, left an estate valued at $90,000, according to a petition filed in superior court by the widow, Annie C. Crawford, to probate the will.

The will leaves the widow residence property at 264 North Glassell street, Orange, and a life estate interest in all other property, including ranch land at Olive.

The will provides that at the death of the widow, a life estate interest in the ranch property is to be vested in the six children, who are to divide the property. C. B. Crawford, of Kern county, was allotted 6.75 acres; Earl Crawford, of Olive, nine acres; Hazel Summers, of Lehigh, five acres; Jennie Brown and Ethelyn Morgan each receiving five acres.

Attorneys Head, Rutan and Scovel, of Santa Ana, represent the petitioner in probate proceedings.

County Shriners Has Social Session for Wives and Guests

"Tis always fair weather — When good Shriners get together" — paraphrased members of the Orange county Shrine club and their guests last night, as they entered into full enjoyment of a varied entertainment program planned as the Santa Ana event in a series of spring and summer parties.

Red fezzes made a solid mass of color in the auditorium of Yost's Broadway theater where the early hours of the evening were spent, and Shriners and their wives from every section of Orange county, laughed at the amusing antics of those princes of fun makers, Charlie Murray and Chester Conklin, in "McFadden's Flats."

From the theater, way was led to St. Ann's Inn where dancing and cards offered entertainment until midnight. Arrivals were greeted by an informal host committee headed by Noble J. O. Fyle, president of the county organization, and Charles Cogan, chairman of the entertainment committee. Other Santa Ana members of the committee aided in plans for the evening, and were Nobles Charles Kelly, William Dean, Lloyd Roach, John Cloyes, C. D. Brown, Elton Roehm, James A. Tarpley, T. H. Smith and Arthur Bowman.

Fred Chapman's seven-piece orchestra demonstrated the ability to offer a program of dance music quite as "peppy" on the "Home Sweet Home" as on the very first "Hot" and the introduction of feature dances aided in the general pleasure.

While the more energetic of the Shriners and their guests danced in the ballroom, others sought the foyer where bridge was the lure. There the winners were rewarded with desirable prizes selected by the committee. Other gifts were won by some of the dancers who chanced to hold lucky numbers in a general distribution of numbered slips of paper. One of the most entertaining features was a "beauty contest" in which Nobles Nelson T. Edwards, Otto Evans and John Cloyes were entrants. Decision was to be made by popular acclaim, but, according to Noble Charles Cogan, since it was "a tie for the three, President Fyle made it a tie for each," presenting a handsome one to each entrant.

The next in the series of Shrine social affairs, will be the stag dinner for members, next Tuesday at the Orange county public golf links, formerly the Santa Ana Country club, on the coast highway near Newport Beach. Members may go down early for a round of golf, and dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

On Thursday, April 28, will be featured another theater party and dance, to be held in Anaheim, complimentary to the wives of the county club members.

Golden Wedding Day Is Celebrated in Ellingson Home

Fifty days of happy wedded life were quietly celebrated on Wednesday, March 23, by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ellingson at their beautiful new home in Sunset Gardens, 1501 West Ninth street. Throughout the day their many friends called to extend congratulations. Many useful and suitable gifts were received, as well as messages of congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellingson were united in marriage in a small town in northern Iowa, on March 23, 1877. Some time later they moved to Alberta, Canada, where the greater part of their wedded life was spent. Two years ago they returned to Canada they realized that the northern winters were becoming too severe for them, so they forsook their Canadian home for the balmy clime of Southern California, coming to Santa Ana to reside in the fall of 1926.

Only two of their five children were able to be present for the occasion. Mrs. Mary Lindsay, who lives with her parents, and Mrs. Walter Olson, of Venice, Calif. Three sons, Ben and Elmer, of Detroit, Mich., and John, of Dorence, Alberta, Canada, were unable to be present.

Their many friends extend their congratulations and best wishes for many more years of happy wedded life.

Gay Spring Luncheon Shared by Members Of Quill Pen

The bird of wisdom presided over the enjoyable luncheon with which Mrs. E. E. Boething yesterday entertained a group of Quill Pen club members, for a sober brown owl sat enthroned in the center of the prettily arranged table where guests were seated.

The Boething home at 325 East Camille street, was made a charming spot with silken petalled ranunculus shining in the glow of candles and shaded lights. Places at the luncheon table, were indicated by small books, each titled to indicate some fact or characteristic of the guest whose name it bore as author. Thus accorded literary fame, were the hostess, Mrs. Boething, Mrs. J. F. Adams, Quill Pen president; Mrs. J. U. Viau, past president; Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mrs. N. E. Wells, Mrs. Fred Conover, Miss Verna Wells, and Mrs. Verna Lee Bretzke of Montana, who is in Santa Ana visiting her mother, Mrs. D. A. Scott of East Camille street.

After the enjoyable luncheon, guests returned to the living-room for chat and an entertaining magazine contest in which Mrs. Boething was awarded a prize of a charming French doll who concealed a more utilitarian dining basket. Discussions of new books, both prose and verse, shared interest with countless other topics of conversation.

The luncheon was entirely apart from the stated meetings of the Quill Pen club, the latest of which was held at the home of Mrs. Charles M. Best, with Mrs. N. E. Wells and Miss Verna Wells to be hostesses next time at their home, 924 Halladay street.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Presbyterian Aid

Sixty members of the southwest section of the First Presbyterian Aid society, met yesterday afternoon in the attractive home of Mrs. Frank Thomas, 914 South Main street, where the friendly atmosphere was enhanced by many colorful flowers.

In the business meeting, it was reported that the month just ending, had witnessed 220 calls made by the section, and fourteen bouquets sent to members reported ill. The friendly calls made during the year totaled over 1500.

The resignation of Dr. Alma Bartel as secretary-treasurer, was regretfully accepted. Dr. Bartel plans to move to Alhambra, where she will carry with her the good wishes of the entire section, whose members deeply regret that they must lose so capable a co-worker.

An entertaining program was then given, to which Miss Justina Palmer and Duncan Harnois each contributed piano numbers and Miss Vivian Rogers gave recitations.

Mrs. Thomas then introduced an amusing contest which finally ended with the guests divided into little groups to enjoy refreshments together.

Members of the hostess committee responsible for the friendly charm of the afternoon were Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. G. B. Darnell, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Mrs. Charles Winters, Mrs. Charles Gammell, Dr. Alma Bartel, Mrs. Lena Hewitt, Mrs. W. H. Thomas and Mrs. Clara G. Chapman.

S. O. S. Club Members Enjoy Luncheon in Slabaugh Home

When Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh sent out an S.O.S. call this week, it was far from being the signal for aid as is the case at sea, but was the signal for a party instead—one of the delightful gatherings of the S.O.S. club.

The Slabaugh home at 1602 North Main street, was made a perfect setting for a party, with massed sweet peas and freesias adding their charm to the friendly greetings and camaraderie of the occasion. The dining-room was a floral bower, with sweet peas and freesias glowing on the table in the light of tall green candles. Beautifully embroidered linens, gay place cards, and a delectable menu were all contributing features to the general enjoyment.

Informal after-luncheon chat yielded place to bridge as the dominant interest of the afternoon, and Mrs. Terry Stephenson was holder of high score, when count was taken at the close of an exciting series. Mrs. Slabaugh presented her with a hand-embroidered dresser scarf as reward for skill.

It was regretted that three S.O.S. members found it impossible to be present. Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie. Members present in addition to the hostess, Mrs. Slabaugh, were Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. John P. Baumgartner, Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson, Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mrs. William E. Otis, Mrs. C. A. Vance, Mrs. J. E. Gowen, and a special guest, Mrs. Lewis F. Moulton.

Ebell Section Plans For Candy Booth

When Mrs. Norbert Lentz and Mrs. George Osterman entertained their sister members of Ebell's current events section recently at a luncheon, they centered the small tables with potted primroses which later in the afternoon, were presented as table prizes to winners in the bridge contest.

The affair was staged at the clubhouse where the pleasant luncheon interval was followed by a lively discussion of spring market plans. The current events group will have charge of the candy booth, with Mrs. J. S. Warner and Mrs. C. V. Doty as committee heads. Those wishing to donate candy or sweets, may telephone either one.

Twenty members enjoyed the afternoon, including one new member, Mrs. George Holmes. Mrs. Emrys D. White and Mrs. Ralph Smedley were luncheon guests.

Cooked Food Sale

Those who remember the delicious home-cooked dishes which members of the Ebell Day Nursery committee offered at their series of food sales a few months ago, will be eager to patronize tomorrow's sale which will be staged in the Blauer grocery on West Fourth street, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mrs. John Cloyes and Mrs. J. Edmund Snow will have charge of tomorrow's sale, and promise meat loaf, a variety of salads, baked beans, cakes, cookies and pies as some of the delicacies to be featured.

Other assistance of the committee of which Mrs. T. D. Knights is chairman, will assume responsibility for the succeeding sales of the series. All proceeds will go to the needs of the nursery, one of Ebell society's favorite enterprises.

The Day Nursery committee consists of Mrs. Knights, Mrs. Cloyes, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Verna Yoder, Mrs. E. A. Noe, Mrs. Harry Spencer, Mrs. L. M. Forney and Mrs. J. William Taylor Jr.

Remarkable Character Overcomes Handicaps After Accident

(By OLIVE LOPEZ)

Business and professional women especially, and Santa Ana people in general, will be interested in the story of Dr. Ann Perry of Los Angeles, a sketch of whom, together with her wonderful accomplishments and courage in the face of terrible affliction, appears in the March number of the Clubwoman, official organ of the California Federation Business and Professional Women's clubs.

Ann Perry lived in Santa Ana with her mother, brother and sisters for many years and was a graduate of the Santa Ana high school in the class of 1902. The family moved to Santa Ana from the peatlands, and purchased property at the corner of Lacy and Vance streets. Their home was destroyed by fire and they moved a house onto the lot, which was purchased by George L. Wright when the Perry family moved to Los Angeles.

Ann Perry entered the California hospital, where she became an expert nurse. She was superintendent of the surgical department when she decided to become a physician, graduated from the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, taking diplomas in both schools.

Ten years had passed since she stood in her cap and gown to receive the longed-for document, and successfully passed the state medical examination for her license to practice as a physician and surgeon. Two months later, she volunteered for service with one of the base hospitals and was awaiting the call of the government for active service.

Dr. Perry's mother lived at Bakersfield and she was going to say farewell to her before leaving for her humanitarian work, when the motorbus in which she was riding was wrecked, she was pinned beneath the heavy debris, and her back was broken.

For six long months she lay in a cast, praying to die and be relieved of her intense sufferings, but even in those agonizing hours, she passed her time knitting sweaters, socks and other needed articles for the soldiers, passing them over to the Red Cross, which furnished the yarn.

Little by little, movement came back to the muscles and the patient was able to sit up a portion of each day in a wheel chair. She continued to do handwork, resumed her violin practice and in a little wagon, (an Irish maid with rubber, and a special arrangement so that Dr. Perry could manipulate it with her hands instead of her feet, she began to garden. She had a set of tools with short handles with which she lovingly tended her earth children and enjoyed the sun and fresh air. She was successful in raising chickens and rabbits.

The plucky physician lives in her own little bungalow, cooks and cares for herself, with the sole help of a woman who comes now and then to do housecleaning, and her laboratory work outside.

For Dr. Perry has become expert in laboratory work, for which she had a very special preparation. She did a little work at a time for other physicians and gradually has built up a good business, as her health improved.

Not satisfied with this success alone, Dr. Perry began to study psychology, taking work in the extension courses of the University of California, working hard at the subject for several years. Then she added a year of active psychoanalysis study under the able instruction of Dr. Louise Unger.

But never has this marvelous woman given up her efforts to regain her ability to walk. On crutches she exercises strenuously for three hours a day, under expert guidance, and while she is still bound to the wheel chair for many of her hours, her physicians and friends are sure that she will soon regain the complete use of her legs.

"Dr. Perry's is a remarkable case of courage in the face of disaster," says Dr. Lilla Vance, writing in the Clubwoman. "She pressed forward over obstacles that would daunt the bravest of us and reached success in spite of it all."

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

AT THE AGE OF 83

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. It past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

INTEREST IN COMING CITY ELECTIONS GROWS KEENER

With six days of March and 11 days of April still to go before the day of the city election, with nominations closed Tuesday of this week, interest is keener in the coming city election now than it has been at any time during the preliminary period.

Quite a number of things may happen between now and election. Something happened yesterday when O. W. Humphrey took a sudden notion that he didn't want to be city councilman from the third ward half as bad as he thought he did. Presto—just like that, he quit. Who knows but there may be others who also may be struck by the same thought!

There has been quite a bit of speculation among those who would like to know just what is to happen in the Citizens' association during the next week or two. Something's likely to happen there most any minute, so 'tis said.

Here's the situation. At least it is the situation so far as one can get it through a periscope. The Citizens' association is composed of two elements, or crowds or parties, or whatever you want to call the divisions of thought and activity that is represented by the two groups of leadership found in the association.

To begin with, the association was originally formed as the result of getting together of men who were opposed to the city assessor system, which was proposed for Santa Ana a few months ago. Somebody suggested that a permanent organization be instituted, with authority to watch city affairs.

An ample set of constitution and by-laws was written out and adopted. Under these, an executive committee was chosen, which committee under the instructions of a meeting of the association had authority to do some work in the way of getting out candidates. It was reported that each executive committee member for his ward was to use whatever methods he desired to find out who the people of his ward wanted for a candidate, then the executive committee would report back to the association with its recommendations.

As the campaign progressed, it developed that a group of men led by L. A. Sweet and S. J. Jackson were not satisfied with what the executive committee was doing. On this committee are C. B. Morgan, first ward; George Munro, second; L. D. Mercereau, fourth; Charles Heinrich, fifth. G. G. Latimer was the representative from the third ward, but when he became a candidate for trustee himself, under the rules of the Citizens' association he automatically ceased to exist as an officer and member of the association. Latimer also ranked as president of the association. Through his candidacy, the association is automatically without a president, it seems.

One thing that displeased the Sweet faction was the fact that George Munro had held a meeting in his ward at which Stanley E. Goode was endorsed for city trustee. Munro had picked out what he thought was a representative group of men of the ward, met at the Lincoln schoolhouse, talked the situation over and when those present came to the conclusion that Goode was the man they ought to support, Munro stated that he would recommend to the Citizens' association that it, too, endorse Goode.

Without notifying the members of the executive committee, Sweet and 10 or 11 others met last Saturday, and proceeded to endorse a number of candidates. Some of those endorsed have since said that they did not seek the endorsement. In fact, they say they know nothing about the meeting.

Members of the executive committee have since declared that the meeting was held in direct violation of the rules of the association. The executive committee believes that it represents the more conservative element of the members of the Citizens' association, which, it seems, has no large membership as yet signed up. Because of this belief, it looks as though the executive committee will call a meeting of the association within a few days, giving every member the three days' notice required by the by-laws.

It is freely predicted that there will be a clash between the two leaderships at this meeting. The gathering is awaited with interest.

Interest in School Board
There is a widespread interest in the selection of five members of the board of education. There are thirteen candidates. Their names will appear on the ballot in the following order:

John D. Ball, George Dunton, Carl R. Edgar, L. M. Forcey, Roy S. Horton, Will O'Brien, M. A. Patton, Lloyd E. Roach, Charles F. Smith, Charles W. TeWinkle, Fred H. Taylor, George R. Wells, Mrs. Clara W. Wilson.

Two of these candidates, Roy S. Horton and C. F. Smith, are members of the present board of education.

There has been some talk of "tickets" the past few days. Whether any affiliation will be made publicly has not developed.

"Say, Are You Going to Vote?"
Robert L. Smith, 620 East Second street, brought a clipping into the Register office a few days ago. It's a poem by Carleton G. Garretson published in the New York Times. "Say, Are You Going to Vote?" is the title of the effort. Bob Smith, along with a lot of other Smiths, is the kind of a citizen who takes a keen interest in public affairs, and he votes. With a city election coming up, Bob offers the poem for consideration. Here it is:

"Are you one of those men who have fault to find With the way that your city is run— Who have often the governing powers maligned For the things they've omitted, or done? Are there wrongs you would right, Are there laws you'd amend, Or improvements that you would promote? Then, say, have you registered yet, my friend? And, say, are you going to vote?"

"Is there graft in your ward?"
Would you ferret it out? Mere talking will nothing avail. You must enter the lists, you must storm the redoubt, Not idly conditions bewail. If a wreck you'd avoid all your strength you must lend, From the shoals you must help guide the boat.

Then, say, have you registered yet, my friend? And, say, are you going to vote?"

"You live in a free, broad and unfettered age, Where franchise is every man's right. Then do well your part, and with courage engage In this worthy Good Government fight. From your own eye the beam it's your duty to rend, Ere you take from your brother's the mote."

Then, say, have you registered yet, my friend? And, say, are you going to vote?"

CANDIDATES IN COUNCIL RACE EXPLAIN VOTE

Candidates for the city council from the various Santa Ana wards today are explaining to their friends that regardless of what ward they live in they can vote for any of the 18 candidates.

Every election there are some voters who get the idea that because they live in the first ward, for instance, they can not vote for a candidate in the third ward. Many believe that they can only vote for the candidate in the ward where they reside, it was said.

Voters can vote for one candidate from each of the Santa Ana wards, regardless of the ward where the candidate lives or where the voter lives. The candidate who receives the highest number of votes in each ward, wins. Or in other words, if Voter John Jones, who lives in the third ward votes for Bill Smith who lives in the fifth ward, and Bill Smith gets more votes than any other candidate who is running in the fifth ward, then Bill Smith will be the new council member.

Attention Real Citrus Men

On account of the death of the owner, the best 46-acre citrus ranch in San Diego county is for sale. His widow has told us to sell and has given us a price that will move it.

16 acres in oranges, 8 acres coming four years old, mostly valencias, balance of 8 acres in full production, mostly Washington navel. About three acres of young valencias coming two years old. 50 Japanese persimmons same age. 10 acres in full bearing of the best lemons to be found anywhere. About 12 acres more ready to set to valencias.

The soil is rich and deep and has had the best care money and time could give it. Lays just gently rolling and the entire place is under cement pipe line. Over 3600 shares of water stock go with the place which gives you 75 acre feet of water. Fine well with electric motor and pump for domestic water.

Two sets of improvements. Owners residence of seven large rooms, modern in every detail, situated on a high knoll overlooking the valley for miles around, and beautifully landscaped. Large double garage and other suitable outbuildings. Another set of buildings for employees, with barns and machine sheds for all stock and implements.

Over $5000 worth of machinery, horses and equipment goes with the place, and the machinery is all new or in excellent condition. Caterpillar tractor, trucks, etc., all go.

Come and look this over if you are interested and if you don't say that it is the biggest bargain in Southern California today we will pay you for your time and trouble, and we mean just that. The price and terms will be more attractive than you would ever anticipate. For further information write, phone or call on owner's exclusive agent. No trades. "Courtesy to Brokers Always."

REMOVAL FILM CENSORSHIP IS ASKED BY HAYS

NEW YORK, March 25.—The suggestion that the federal constitution be amended to guarantee freedom of the motion picture screen as freedom of speech and press is now guaranteed, was made by WILL H. HAYS, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, in an article on "Censorship of the Movies" in the April number of Review of Reviews.

"To release the product of one's brain only after it has been strained through the sieve of a censor," said Hays, is a discouragement and an affront to conscientious men.

"The founders of our republic recognized this when they guaranteed to all men freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, and freedom of conscience. Had the motion picture been known when the constitution was written, there is not the slightest doubt that it, too, would have been accorded those inalienable rights which Americans jealously safeguard for motion pictures are but visualized speech and thought. The whole matter is so important that perhaps provision in the federal constitution itself might be wise to protect the integrity of the people's favorite amusement against unfair aggression and consequent attrition."

"The tendency to censor motion pictures, books, all forms of expression, is a mark of the times," Hays continued. "The passion, on the part of a small minority, for regulating and directing other people to their will, has become almost a national pastime."

"Political invasion assumed its most threatening aspects shortly after the termination of the war. Soon it became apparent that continued aggression would ultimately mean that there could be no physical distribution of motion pictures in America. The industry, hampered by conflicting laws and restrictions, with no set standards, would have been forced to go out of business."

"Then, too, censors have their own prejudices, their own likes and dislikes, which are not necessarily the likes and dislikes and prejudices, which govern their neighbors."

"One censor board had a lawyer among its members and the lawyer objected to the showing of any picture in which an unethical or 'crooked' lawyer appeared. An inland state prohibited the display of girls in bathing suits; while a seacoast state, which boasts one of the finest beaches in America, did not see impropriety in such scenes."

"Scenes of strike-riots were ordered eliminated from news reels in one state at the same time its newspapers were using photographs of the exact incidents recorded in the films. Another board, upset by the appearance in a picture of an employer who did not use safety devices to protect his employees, ordered insertion of a title reading: 'Henry Jones, a type of employer now happily extinct, who does not believe in safety devices.'"

"The public, having its attention called to the matter, realizes that censorship is the wrong method of protecting the people from real and fancied danger. Censorship has proved as ineffective in operation as it was unnecessary in actuality."

"For instance, the city of Chicago passed a city ordinance 12 years ago providing for censorship of motion pictures. For 12 years Chicago censors have eliminated from the cinema reference to crime, holdups, carrying of firearms, bootleggers, etc. And does any one say that Chicago has become a more model city because of these prohibitions than its sister cities where more such practice has not obtained?"

"People Said 'No'."

"The only time the people themselves had an opportunity to express an opinion on censorship of motion pictures they voiced a thunderous 'No!' The legislature of Massachusetts passed a censorship law. Governor Coolidge vetoed it, a later legislature was induced to pass it. By petition, censorship became a referendum matter. On November 7, 1922, the voters of Massachusetts went to the polls to say whether films should be censored or not. The citizens defeated the measure, 553,173 to 208,252—a majority of 344,921 against censorship."

"The liberty that is asked for motion picture producers is not licensed in any sense. Freedom for artists, thinkers, scientists, means growth not retrogradation. Obscenity disseminated in whatever form is not countenanced for one minute. But obscenity is already a crime and statutes already enacted fix penalties for violation of public decency."

"What America asks is that picture producers be given the right to exercise their moral responsibilities, and not made to send the product of their thought before a jury before it is born into the world, nor made to undergo judgment in the darkness of prejudice. The people do not wish to have their amusement branded with a censor stamp as ball and security for its wholesomeness."

"The sense of responsibility on the part of producers which censorship would remove is the surest guarantee of progress and right conduct."

Papers Print News

Newspapers exercise their sense of responsibility. Your daily paper prints the news every day. It does so with full freedom. No censor is on hand to look over the shoulder of the editor at his work, to say what shall and shall not be printed. No one says to him what news shall be delivered to the home or sold on the streets. But if the newspaper abuses its privileges and prints treasurable or libelous matter, laws are ready and available for the editor's punishment. The people have said to the newspaper: 'We trust you. If you abuse our trust, we will punish you. That is the sort of freedom the motion picture must have. Freedom, with strict account ability for the proper use of that freedom, is its prerogative.'

"If the times come when we can not safely govern America by law and must depend upon distasteful direction from a few professional regulators who have never given consideration to the surer methods of religious and cultural education, to the training of individual taste, to the discipline of the mind and the development of moral conceptions, which curb unclean products because they make such products unprofitable, then will America be in a bad way indeed."

"LEGGED" TREES

DAVIS, March 25.—"Five legged" trees are becoming popular among pear growers where orchards have been affected with black end rot, according to savants here, working on this disease for the past two years. One of the causes of black end rot is the use of Japanese rootstocks. To overcome this, young trees on French roots are planted by the old tree and then grafted into the trunk, or inarched.

During 1926, the United States deported 10,904 aliens found to be unlawfully within its limits. More than 20,000 were debared before they were able to enter the country.

4 SANTA ANAS MAKE TRIP TO WEEPAH FIELD

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lashy and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sharpless, of this city, were among the scores who were caught in the grip of a wind storm last week at Weepah, Nevada, the scene of the latest gold excitement in the west.

The Santa Anas motored to the scene of excitement and on the trip had many experiences that were more or less novel for them.

A hole three feet deep, in which two men may stand, represents the mine which contains fabulous riches and which was discovered recently by James Traynor and Frank Horton, Los Angeles youths, Lashy said today, in recounting incidents of this trip.

It was his understanding, based on reports at Weepah, that Traynor and Horton had sold their interests for $70,000 and that the purchasers were waiting completion of water development and other plans before starting to push mining operations.

Lashy found that mining claims had been staked out all over the district and he gained the impression that men who staked them did so with expectation of making greater wealth by selling than by digging for rich ore.

Whether the find by the two young men is merely a pocket of rich ore or is a ledge, had not been determined.

The Santa Anas drove through the sand storm that wrecked camps, and when the car emerged from the storm the by paint was in bad condition, particularly the front of the car. Repainting of a portion of the radiator and hood will be necessary.

The party returned home by way of Death Valley, the desert mansion of "Death Valley Scotty" being visited en route.

PHIL GOODWIN WILL LEAVE ON SATURDAY

Having played the principal part in convicting his erstwhile friend and pal of murder, by testimony given this week in the Albert Dewey Gaines murder trial, Philip A. Goodwin, priest and actor, will return to his cell at San Quentin prison tomorrow, where he will wait until the powers that be decide whether or not he is to hang for the murder of the man he helped prove Gaines killed.

Deputy sheriffs Joe Scott and Paul Brown have been selected by Sheriff Sam Jernigan to return the prisoner to the shadow of the gallows where he has been for several months, following his conviction of the crime here last fall.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, a March 25.—Mrs. A. B. Crane was surprised Tuesday by a visit from an old friend, Miss Rachel Vinnik, of Suisun.

O. J. Day has purchased a new electric slicing machine for his meat department.

Mrs. Florence Summers, of Fullerton county department chairman of citizenship, working under the auspices of the P.-T. A., investigated the Mexican situation in Westminster Wednesday, making a survey of the population, as to the possibility of establishing adult classes for these people in Americanization. Westminster has the largest Mexican population in Orange county. Should such classes be instituted, and such a movement is greatly needed here, Mrs. Summers said, the Huntington Beach high school would co-operate in every way possible. Mrs. Summers will talk on the Americanization of Mexicans on Sunday evening at 9 o'clock over KHH, and urges that all P.-T. A. women and others interested in this work, listen in for the address.

Alcoholic Shoe Polish Blamed By Wild Driver

"A fellow named Shorty gave me some stuff that looked like shoe polish and tasted the same way. That's what put me under the weather."

This was the admission of D. D. Hill, Huntington Beach oil worker, when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison today on a charge of reckless driving. Motorcycle Officer Aldrich made the arrest. Justice Morrison said that the next time he came into contact with the alcoholic shoe polish that he better leave his car alone, or he might face a term in San Quentin. He also risks loss of his citizenship, the justice reminded him.

Four Boys Leave For Ione School

Deputy Sheriffs Joe Irvine and Harry Carter will leave this afternoon with four prisoners for the Ione state reformatory. The prisoners are four boys, two 17 years old and two 16 years old, who were recently found guilty of burglary. The youths have been held in jail here for the past several days.

If a grain of wheat were placed on the first square of a chessboard, two grains on the second, four on the third, eight on the fourth and so on, the total number on the sixty-four squares would be 18,446,744,073,709,551,615.

CITIES BATTLE FOR NEXT MEET OF TRADE BODY

SANTA BARBARA, March 25.—A bitter fight for the next convention city of the State Building Trades council loomed at yesterday's session of the twenty-seventh annual convention here, as delegations of seven cities urged their selections on the convention floor.

The city, which will be named late tomorrow or Saturday, will be selected from the following: San Francisco, Bakersfield, Monterey, Santa Rosa, Petaluma, Santa Cruz and Stockton.

A committee composed of painters took up the subject of deaths caused by painters' "collie" and the use of paint spraying devices. A test of the use of gas masks will be made tomorrow before the delegates and engineers of the state industrial accident commission.

Charles Van Norman, of Los Angeles, representing the United Associations of Plumbers and Steam Fitters, addressed the convention on the activities of his organization.

Various committees, studying state legislature, are expected to make reports today.

Los Angeles scientists quickly identified the bones as of the species known as Elphas Imperator and E. Columbi.

DR. WEHRLY IS RE-ELECTED AS PRESIDENT OF 'T.-B' WORKERS

Knights of Pythias to Aid In Rebuilding Office on Irvine Ranch Location

TRI-COUNTIES CLINIC URGED

Orange County Association Asks Dr. Ball to Support Sunshine School Bills

Many matters of vital interest were discussed at the annual meeting of the Orange County Tuberculosis association held in the office of the president, Dr. John Wehrly. The officers were re-elected, with a few exceptions on the advisory council, as follows: Dr. John Wehrly, president; R. W. Balch, first vice president; Mrs. C. C. Violett, second vice president; A. J. Crookshank, treasurer; Mrs. J. B. Eichen, secretary; Mrs. Amelia A. Meagher, executive secretary; Dr. V. G. Presson, Orange county health officer; Dr. Bessie Ratche, O. H. Barr, James Irvine Jr., and the Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, directors.

Knights of Pythias Help
An administration building will be built on the site of the children's health camp on the Irvine ranch, near the county park, the Anaheim Knights of Pythias having offered to do all of the work and to provide the material at cost. The work including enlarging the kitchen at the camp and providing better equipment, will cost about $1000. Donations amounting to more than $350 having been promised. The camp will open at the close of school, about the middle of June, and will take care of 40 children.

Dr. Wehrly announced that the $5000 bequest made to the association would not be available until July, and will assist very materially in the vital work being done.

J. Simon Fluor was appointed chairman to see to putting the camp in shape for the summer. No damage was done by the rains, but some of the grounds were washed away by the creek waters. Dr. Wehrly will select a staff of physicians to conduct the examinations of children wishing to enter camp. As only indigents are eligible for the clinics at the county hospital, Dr. Wehrly also offered his office and services for X-ray work and will provide a clinic where for a small fee, diagnostic chest examinations will be provided.

A resolution was adopted to be presented to the board of supervisors asking that the matter of the tri-counties tuberculosis sanitarium be taken up again, as the institution is a vital need, and in connection with Imperial and Riverside counties, the association believes it can be conducted more

CAP FOR NURSES

Navy nurses have a new style in head dress—a style nobody else can copy. Here's Chief Nurse Rose E. Walker, of the navy department, Washington, wearing one of the new uniform caps.

GIVE PROGRAM AT CONVENTION OF P.-T. A. FOLK

"The Seven Fold Program of Home and School," based upon the following points—worthy home membership, sound health, vocal effectiveness, mastery of tools and techniques of learning, the wise use of leisure, useful citizenship and ethical character, will form the general topic of the Thirty-first annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held in Oakland, May 21 to 23, according to a preliminary program announcement received by Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, president of the Fourth (Orange county) District of the state organization.

According to Mrs. Kelsey, a special effort is being made to have Orange county well represented at the national convention at which the various department activities of the organization will be set forth by selected speakers.

It is expected that close to 10,000 women, representing all sections of the country, including the Canal Zone, Alaska, Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines, will attend the national meet. Because of this, it is pointed out, hotel reservations should be made at an early date with the housing committee, Mrs. W. H. Woods, 5701 Fleming avenue, Oakland, chairman. Reservations will be honored in order of receipt and each delegate or visitor must make his or her own separate reservation.

The growing popularity of soccer in Spain is making inroads on the gates at bull fights, and all the natives who reverence traditional Spanish sports are gravely concerned.

'VALENCIA' IS SUGGESTED FOR COLLEGE NAME

Santa Ana 'Dons' Discuss Proposed Elimination of 'Junior' in Appellation

The oft quoted saying, "What's in a name?" was the crux of a lively discussion among the students of the Santa Ana junior college at the assembly when the question of changing the college name to remove the "junior" was opened by James Smith, student body president.

Smith said that the college executive officers had gone on record favoring changing the name. The attitude of the students toward the action was asked by Smith.

Some of the students, speaking on the subject, went so far as to favor adopting a new name entirely. "Valencia" was the only name that was presented for consideration. The college has adopted the old Spanish name, "Dons," and it was pointed out that naming the college Valencia after the city of Spain would add to the significance of the Castilian motif.

The name Valencia was suggested by James Smith.

While not many of the students were willing to go so far as to change the name completely, strong support was given the proposal that the "junior" in Santa Ana junior college be dropped. Confusion exists between the Santa Ana junior high school and junior college in the minds of many people, it was claimed.

Moreover, the junior, implying inferiority, is distasteful, it was contended by Gilbert Myers, Allen Goddard and others.

Lon McIntire, student body vice president, voiced his opposition to any change. The junior college is a unit of the state educational system and it is a name, as any proper name, he pointed out.

Although no definite action was taken by the students, the matter was held open. If the support in favor of changing the name is in the majority, the Santa Ana board of education will be petitioned to officially pass on the proposal, Smith said today.

Public Invited to Historical Society

The public is invited to a meeting of the Orange County Historical society, in the Elbell clubhouse, next Monday night, at which time an address will be given by Mrs. Sarah Bixby Smith, of Long Beach, author of "Adobe Days."

Mrs. Smith is a member of the well known pioneer Bixby family. Another feature of the program will be a series of old-time ballads, to be sung by Miss Elizabeth Easton.

S. M. Davis, secretary of the society, states that the meeting is scheduled to start at 7:30.

RECORD LEMON YIELD TAKEN FROM TREE ON BUARO ROAD

Lemons "as is lemons," nine of them making a complete armful for John W. Hull, grower, living three miles west of Santa Ana. They are a portion of the 1390 pounds Hull plucked from one tree at one picking. The poundage is declared to be a world record for one picking. Hull holds nine of a dozen lemons that weighed an even eight pounds.

Extra Large Fruit Taken From Branches on Land Very Rarely Watered

The John W. Hull lemon grove, three miles west of Santa Ana, sprang into prominence today, when Hull laid claim to a world record for poundage from one tree—1390 pounds. The ranch location is on Buaro road, one mile south of Fifth street.

Hull cleaned one tree of all its ripe fruit on Wednesday and when he placed the fruit in lug boxes and carted it to the scales he found that he had accumulated 1390 pounds of juice, pulp and rind, and then he started investigations that convinced him that the picking had established what is believed to be a world record. Men who have passed a life time in the gathering and selling of this product declared they never have heard of one-tree production that equaled the poundage gathered by Hull at one picking.

Fruit Very Big
Most of the fruit was of exceptional size, and was clean and firm. Twelve lemons placed on the scales balanced at an even eight pounds. The lemons were picked for Taylor's cannery for conversion into lemon preserves. Hull received 3 and 1-4 cents a pound for 1000 pounds of the 1390 picked. On the basis of this price, the tree returned the grower $45.13. Carrying out the income consideration a little further, 75 trees with such production would return a grower $3338 an acre, for the average planting is 75 trees to the acre.

The production is exceptional, but the condition under which the fruit was grown was exceptional, when considered from the standpoint of scientific lemon culture. Hull has about 40 trees, and he declares the orchard has very little attention, the land being cultivated occasionally, but not watered. The fruit also had been left on the tree and was not picked from time to time as is done in the average orchard. The fruit, probably would not stand shipping, in the opinion of expert lemon growers.

High Yield At Hewes Park
According to D. Eymann Huff, manager of the Hewes ranch, at El Modena, he has records showing that there are trees on the ranch that produced as high as 800 pounds at one picking, with eight or nine pickings he made during the year, and the poundage exceeding that produced by the tree on the Hull

SCHOOL BOARD APPROVES MOVE FOR SECESSION

Inquiries made today at the board of education offices revealed the fact that members of the Santa Ana city board of education, in their effort to co-operate with the citizens of Costa Mesa, Newport Beach and Balboa for the establishment of a separate union high school district in that section, have affixed their signatures to a joint petition, drafted and signed by the trustees of the Newport Beach and the Costa Mesa elementary school districts, urging Dr. C. D. Ball, assemblyman from this district, to introduce and work for legislation which would enable the harbor section to withdraw from the Santa Ana city high school district.

Such action of the part of the Santa Ana school trustees, it was explained, is in consonance with the formal expression adopted several weeks ago when the board went on record as favoring any measure which would solve the high school problem in the harbor section even to the extent of bringing about a withdrawal from the city high school district.

So far no word has been received from Dr. Ball as to his action in the premises, but the belief is entertained that, if possible, he will introduce a bill to cover the situation. Such a measure, it was pointed out, would necessarily be of a specific nature as it would be impossible to secure a change in general legislation.

12-WORD WILL
NAPA, Calif., March 25.—A 12-word will—the shortest ever filed for probate in this county—brought $2000 to Mrs. Grace Thoma, a nurse. The will said: "Give money—two thousand dollars—to Grace Thoma.—Carl Gottlieb Arnold."

TO ASK COUNTY FOR $100,000 TO BUILD ROAD

Twenty Persons Make Trip From San Juan Capistrano to Riverside Line

An appropriation of $100,000 will be sought from the county board of supervisors for reconstruction of the mountains to the sea highway from San Juan Capistrano to the Riverside county line, it was declared yesterday by 20 Orange county citizens who went over the route on horseback.

An appropriation of $25,000 may be expected from the forestry service as the road will aid in fighting fires, it was declared by those who made the trip. The cost of the strip in Riverside county will approximate half of the Orange county cost, it is thought.

Those in the party left San Juan Hot Springs early in the morning, arriving at the Southern California Athletic club at Elsinore, for dinner. G. B. McHugh, president of the Elsinore Chamber of Commerce, who has been interested in the road project for some time, and Bert Stephenson, district forest ranger, outlined benefits of the proposed highway.

Penetrating a scenic area of great attraction, the road will follow somewhat route of the old trail built across the mountains in 1916 and subsequently virtually abandoned when it was not kept in proper repair. The new road would climb to an altitude of 3000 feet and would not exceed ten per cent in grade at any points, the greater part being of an easy incline. Several of the Orange county men had never visited the locality and reaching the Elsinore terminal, pronounced the possibilities excellent. The scenic beauty of the route was the subject of much comment.

MANY MAIL BOXES NEED REPLACEMENT

In a periodical inspection of the city mail delivery routes, C. C. Langley, foreman of city carriers in the Santa Ana post office, is finding no small number of mail boxes at houses that will have to be replaced.

"The post office department," said Langley, "does not require the delivery of mail in boxes that offer a hazard to the fingers and hands of carriers. In listing boxes that are objectionable, a recent bulletin from the department calls specific attention to cheap metal boxes, the edges of which have become rusted and sharp."

"Notices are being placed in these boxes, asking replacement. I might add that the very best mail box for general purposes is a wooden box, large enough to hold papers and magazines as well as letters. Builders of new houses would do a service if they provided boxes of that kind, or, better yet, slots in doors so that mail can be put inside the house."

The cricket and the grasshopper have their ears just below their knees.

VIOLINIST

Vera Barstow, known as a talented violinist, who is fulfilling a limited number of engagements on the Pacific coast, and who will be one of the featured entertainers tonight on the second number of the P.-T. A. concert course, with Eleanor Woodford, dramatic soprano, and Clarence A. Gustlin, pianist.

THREE ARTISTS ON P.-T.A. MUSIC BILL TONIGHT

With interest heightened by the recent success of the first number of the Parent-Teacher Association council course, (Grace Wood Jess, interpreter of folk songs) patrons await the second number of the series, the three-artist recital at the high school auditorium tonight, when Eleanor Woodford, soprano; Vera Barstow, violinist, and Clarence Gustlin, pianist, will be presented.

Two of the artists, Mrs. Woodford and Clarence Gustlin, need no introduction to Santa Ana audiences, for their talents and attainments are familiar to all, and both are proudly claimed as local products. Mrs. Woodford has not sung before a Santa Ana audience, however, for several years, and Mr. Gustlin's concert tours of the past two years have taken him so far afield, that each will have the charm of novelty added to their reputations as true artists.

Miss Barstow comes as a stranger artist, but has been preceded by her reputation for thorough musicianship and rare personal charm, so it is safe to say that quite as warm a welcome awaits her as will be accorded her companions at their "home-coming." This is her first visit to the Pacific coast, and she has been well welcomed with enthusiasm at every appearance.

Critics are united in their praise of Miss Barstow's mastery of the bow, and almost without exception have commented with enthusiasm upon the bigness and warmth of her tone, an effect peculiarly striking in contrast with her petite appearance. She is programmed for two groups of violin numbers, extremely varied in composition and ranging from the "Praeludium" of Muffett; "At the Fountain" by Schumann and Wieniawski's "Valse Caprice" of the first group, to "Andante" by Lalo; "Ghost Dance" and "Fairy Sailing" by Wieniawski.

As the final feature of the program, the three artists will appear in an ensemble number, "The Nile" by Leroux, with Mr. Gustlin at the piano; Miss Barstow playing the violin and Mrs. Woodford singing. For the other violin and vocal numbers, Marjorie Hicks Hall will act as accompanist.

BEAN FLOUR IN BREAD MAKING MAY RESULT IN NEW INDUSTRY

Chamber Committee Named To Investigate Possibilities of Local Manufacture

LEGUME PRODUCT IS AID TO HEALTH

Food Said to Be Especially Adaptable to Preventing Blood Pressure Mounting

Bean flour for bread. A new industry of tremendous possibilities for Orange county. According to George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, the manufacture of lima bean flour is not merely the imagining of some ultra-visionist, but is within the prospect of immediate fact.

A committee of chamber members headed by William Jerome, a leading figure in the California Lima Bean Growers association, has been appointed to take up the subject with the aim in mind of establishing the first lima bean flour mill in Santa Ana, which, with Ventura, shares honors as the centers of the bean growing industry.

The chief recommendation of lima bean flour, the secretary pointed out is that it is non-acid, a quality for which breadmakers and flour manufacturers have been searching for years. Non-acid bread reduces and prevents high blood pressure and is especially adaptable to the diet of invalids he added.

Attention to bean flour was first directed by Dr. W. D. Sansum, of Santa Barbara, according to information received by the secretary. It is being used with success in a Santa Barbara hospital and its manufacture has been started by way of experiment, by the Palmer Baking company of Santa Barbara. With an initial output of 50 loaves, the demand for the lima bean bread has now grown until 200 loaves are now baked daily, Raymer has been informed.

Inasmuch as Orange county produces such vast quantities of beans and few if any, new markets for the legumes have been discovered, the manufacture of the new flour would contribute materially to the prosperity of Southland growers, it was pointed out.

A further report on the possibilities of the new flour will be made by the chamber committee within a short time, Raymer concluded.

New Photographer In Business Here

George Wilber, Alhambra, commercial photographer, has leased office space on the ground floor of the Rossmore hotel building, where he will open a studio.

For a number of years Wilber was official photographer for the Union Pacific railroad. He also has been connected with the art department of various newspapers, including "The Rocky Mountain News," "The Minneapolis Journal" and "The Register and Leader," of Des Moines.

He is a charter member of the Santa Ana camp of the United Spanish War Veterans. During the Spanish-American war he served with the 43rd U. S. volunteers and the 1st U. S. Infantry, which regiments participated in the Philippine insurrection.

BROTHERS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

A. G. "Glen" Wright of Anaheim, manager of the Orange County Rock company and his brother, Henry Wright, of Santa Ana, who left together recently by motor on a business trip into the Imperial Valley, are now in Yuma, Arizona, suffering from injuries received Sunday when their car blew a tire near the city and turned over, according to meager reports received by relatives in Anaheim and Santa Ana.

Henry Wright is reported to have been rendered unconscious as the result of his injuries and did not regain consciousness until late Tuesday night, but is thought to now be on the road to recovery. His brother, Glen, sustained only minor cuts and bruises, it is said.

The intense heat of the country through which the men were traveling is thought to have been the cause of the unusual accident. The wives of the men left Monday for Yuma and are now with their husbands.

POLICEMEN TO ATTEND FIRES CHIEF DECREES

Following the blocking of traffic by some 20 automobiles, in the neighborhood of the Henry Walters home, several nights ago, while the house was being destroyed by fire and at which time Chief John Luxemburger, of the fire department, claims his men were severely handicapped, plans were completed today to send police officers to each fire.

In the past, police officers have not been rushing to fires, City Marshal Claude Rogers said, because most of the time the department did not know when alarms came in. All this is to be changed.

Through an arrangement made between City Marshal Rogers and Chief Luxemburger today, the desk man at the fire station will immediately notify the desk sergeant at police headquarters, when an alarm is turned in. The desk sergeant then will detail two police officers in an automobile to the scene of the fire.

These officers will be well equipped with arrest slips and persons who park their automobiles within 500 feet of the fire, which is a violation of a city ordinance, will face arrest.

The police officers sent to the fire also will direct traffic in the fire area, City Marshal Rogers said.

Rogers said today that the nuisance committed by motorists at the scene of the Walters' fire would have been averted, had officers been detailed to the scene.

BREA

BREA, March 25.—The family of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hunter is now under quarantine for diphtheria. Buddy, the small son of the household, is the only one ill and is reported as recovering nicely under the care of Dr. C. E. Steen. Meanwhile, Mr. Hunter, who is employed in the nearby oil fields, has been forced to find other living quarters.

Members of the Brea Lions club who attended a meeting of the county council held in Placentia Monday night were W. A. Culp, George Henigan, the Rev. W. Judson Oldfield and Ed Peterkin. In the absence of the president of the council, C. H. Woodruff, of Brea, the meeting was presided over by W. A. Culp.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning for Michael Horan, 54, who passed away at the family residence on East Birch street on Sunday evening after a long illness. Services were held in the St. Mary's church at Fullerton with the Rev. Father Thomas Griffith in charge and interment was made in Loma Vista.

The deceased is survived by a widow, six sons, a daughter, five grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers, most of whom make their home in Southern California. He had been a resident of this vicinity for the past quarter of a century and of Brea for nearly six years. He was well and favorably known here, having been in the cement contracting business for several years.

Miss Eunice Burton, who has been a patient at the Anaheim sanitarium for some time, is reported as progressing nicely and will soon be at home again.

Louis Braasch, Santa Ana, new owner of the Galbraith building here, is reported to be contemplating changes and improvements in the building in the near future. It is said that new tile fronts, replacing the stucco walls, and in keeping with the Dewey block on the north, are to be put in and other changes for the advantage of the tenants will be made. The building at present houses a cafe, a barber shop, a shoe repair shop, a pool room and the Safeway grocery. Braasch purchased the building of Lloyd Hulbert, of Fullerton, at a figure purported to be $28,000. This building was built in 1921 by W. A. Culp, later sold to Jack Galbraith, who held it for several years and then sold to Hulbert. Each owner has realized a handsome profit from it.

Brea lodge No. 459 on Wednesday night observed Public School week by calling a recess after opening of lodge and presenting a program to members and friends present. Short addresses were given by I. W. Barnett and W. E. Fanning, respectively principals of the Brea-Olinda union high school and the Brea grammar school. Mrs. Max Afflicher favored with vocal solos and Ted Wickersheim, of Fullerton, gave several piano numbers. Roy Hampson was chairman in charge of the meeting.

Members of the Congregational church enjoyed a splendid missionary meeting in the church on Wednesday. The meeting began with a pot-luck luncheon and was concluded after special singing and a fine program had been enjoyed. Dr. George F. Kennigott, district superintendent of Congregational missions, was present from his home in Los Angeles and spoke interestingly on "Indians," a topic which the society has been studying much of late. Dr. Kennigott was accompanied by Mrs. Kennigott and by her cousin, Miss Turner, of Boston.

Members of the Brea Woman's club are reminded that the afternoon of March 29 is the date of the second anniversary of the club and that they have been invited to attend the program to be given in Sewell hall at 2 o'clock that afternoon. Each member is privileged to bring one guest and each is asked to bring also a silver offering commemorating the anniversary of the club. Program details are being kept a secret and are therefore exciting a great deal of curiosity. The recent membership drive made by the club resulted in raising the membership from 64 to 126. Plans are being entertained for the building of a clubhouse soon.

The literary section of the Brea Woman's club will meet in the home of Mrs. Phebe Spensley, chairman of the section, 415 South Walnut, on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Each member is to come prepared to answer roll call with the recitation of some current event of educational interest. New members are invited.

Word has been received by the Craig families of Brea of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. John M. Craig, in Washington, D. C., where Mrs. Craig is living with her parents. The young man weighed nine pounds and with his mother is said to be doing fine. Brea folk will remember that Mr. Craig and his wife, then a bride, visited here for three months and upon Mr. Craig's return to his duties as superintendent of the Shell Oil company on the island of Borneo, just off the coast of Asia, Mrs. Craig remained in the east with her parents.

An evening of real pleasure is reported from the combined box social and dance given by the Bee Hive club in Sewell hall on Monday night. Mrs. J. S. Thurston, accompanied by Mrs. Forest, both of Laguna Beach, brought eight little girls with them from the beach city and they presented some very pleasing song and dance numbers. Dance music was provided by the Metronome five under the leadership of Frank Holly.

Mrs. A. J. Newberry, who has been visiting for the past several months in the home of her son, Harlan Epla, left yesterday for her home in Corning. Mrs. Newberry has been visiting relatives and friends in Los Angeles for several weeks.

Members of St. Andrew's Guild of the Episcopal church of Fullerton met with Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks at her home in Brea canyon yesterday, where they enjoyed a pot-luck luncheon followed by a business session. Several automobile loads motored out from Fullerton and other places for the event.

Another of the popular Legion dances will be given in Craig's hall on Saturday evening. Music will be furnished by the California Valencians and Ted Craig, past commander of the local post, will have charge of details.

AT THE THEATERS

Carmelita Geraghty, Jerry Madden and Tom Mix in a scene from "The Last Trail," picture now showing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

There's one motion picture star who, no matter how good one production may be, always follows it up with a better picture.

We're referring to Tom Mix, the ace of Western stars, who breezed into town today in "The Last Trail." If you enjoy something away from the so-called beaten path, by all means see it.

"The Last Trail" is a screen version of an outstanding novel by that outstanding novelist, Zane Grey. It's crammed full of action of the sort that really and not literally makes you grasp the arm of your seat.

The action of the film opens with Tom portraying an Army scout in the Dakotas during the last Sioux Indian uprising. A desperado gang that makes a specialty of looting stages coaches figures in a large part of the action. Tom's encounters with the gang in question form the basis of most of the breath-taking action.

In addition to "The Last Trail," Fanchon and Marco have sent a great lineup of vaudeville acts, including the Rudecks, a clever dance team who offer high class dances in a high class way. Vera Van who was at Loew's theater, Los Angeles, with Rube Wolf comes with new songs and clever bits. Scotty Weston is recognized as the Pacific fleet's best dancer. Constance Cella, the little miss who was featured with the Carrolls at the Orpheum and Dave Manley, a clever pianist and singer are also on the bill.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The struggle of the government homesteader to wrest his lands from the deserts of the far west is grippingly portrayed in "The Mysterious Rider," the picture from the Zane Grey story playing at the Yost Broadway theater.

Jack Holt is the mysterious rider and Betty Jewel, a captivating newcomer to pictures, is his heroine. They make an appealing and convincing combination and their "city girl-outdoor man" romance is logical and wholesome.

The story concerns a small colony of ranchers battling the rigors of the desert, the drought, the heat, the sandstorms, then finally treachery, on the part of the lawyer pretending to guard their interests. This role is played by Charles Selton.

YOST THEATER

With the aid of a cast of players that is declared to be as nearly a reproduction of the original cast in the stage comedy as present day conditions will permit, "McFadden's Flats"—known to the amusement world as the funniest of plays for more than a quarter of a century—has been put in films. It will show Saturday and Sunday at the Yost theater.

economically and on a larger scale than if Orange county had a hospital of her own.

Cots from the health camp will be loaned to the El Modena and Brea schools, which are conducting experiments with "sun-hine" schools for malnourished and underweight children.

The secretary was instructed to write to Assemblyman Dr. C. D. Ball asking him to work for the passage of the assembly and senate bills numbers 479-208 and 574 providing for sunshine schools and other things necessary for the welfare of handicapped little folk. Every citizen interested in these vital pieces of legislation is urged to write to the representatives in Sacramento asking their co-operation.

The financial report of the association was received and showed an immense amount of constructive work accomplished during the past year.

Mrs. Amelia Meagher, the executive secretary, in her detailed report showed that she is assisting to put Orange county on the map with her excellent work in the children's health camp, with her addresses before representative organizations, including the Parent-Teacher associations, Federation of Women's clubs and service clubs, all of which have assisted with money and moral support to "make Orange county the healthiest as well as the wealthiest county in the state."

Mrs. Meagher was appointed delegate to attend the State Nurses convention Conference of Social Work and that of the State Tuberculosis association in Oakland and Sacramento the first week in May.

Non-Alcoholic Eating Places Making Headway

BERLIN, March 25.—"Aykohol-freie" (non-alcoholic) restaurants are making headway in Berlin where it is assumed usually that persons drink wine or beer with their meals.

While more than half a dozen of these dry eating houses appear to be flourishing, a new one has just opened up on one of the busiest streets in the down town night-life district.

The city also has long possessed numerous vegetarian restaurants, where neither beer nor wine is sold.

Alfonso, king of Spain, is the only reigning monarch in Europe who was born a king.

Auto Wreck Results In Car Present

BREA, March 25.—When Dr. E. Robinson drove out of his garage one day this week, he left in a somewhat battered flivver. When he returned several hours later, he had a brand new car of the same make.

No, he didn't purchase the new machine and what's more it didn't belong to someone else.

At the intersection of Brea canyon and Whittier roads, Robinson's old auto became involved in a collision with an expensive machine driven by Alex Brokow, wealthy art dealer.

Brokow promptly took Robinson to an automobile agency and was the present of a brand new car, assuming, it is reported, responsibility for the accident.

10 SEA SHELLS BUY ONE BRIDE IN NEW GUINEA

NEW YORK, March 25.—Ten sea shells will buy the most desirable bride in the interior of New Guinea, Stanley A. Hedberg, noted historian and member of the Matthew W. Stirling expedition declared upon his return to New York.

"And what is more," said the historian, "in the wilder and more uncivilized sections of New Guinea which we explored the groom-to-be stands in front of the men of his tribe and each in turn attempts to puncture him with an arrow. The point in this procedure is that if the victim is dexterous enough in dodging the pot shots taken at him, he then is deemed worthy of taking unto himself his chosen bride."

According to Dr. Hedberg, the expedition discovered a new and most interesting people in the interior of New Guinea, where the average height is four feet.

"Both the men and women of this tribe of pygmies are excessive smokers from the time they are mere children," said Dr. Hedberg, "and their chief diet is potatoes, which of course has a tendency to cause them to carry most protruding stomachs."

The Dyaks in bygone days were headhunters, but Dr. Hedberg says this form of sport no longer appeals to them.

Monks Discover Potent Beverage

NEW YORK, March 25.—It is a strange irony of fate that St. Benedict should have given his name to one of the most potent and seductive of beverages—benedictine—seeing that he himself was one of the most abstemious of men. His only drink was spring water, and he allowed himself no more than a small fixed quantity of food each day. These rules he also enforced upon his followers, but after his death the Order of the Benedictines, which he founded, grew to be one of the wealthiest and most luxurious in the world.

Their material prosperity, however, was due entirely to their own untiring industry. The Benedictines worked hard at all sorts of manual labor, for one of the main principles of their founder was that each member must earn a living by the work of his own hands. Mostly they tilled the soil, and they were renowned throughout Europe for their knowledge of healing herbs and roots.

It was while experimenting with these in this direction that one of the monks first discovered the secret of distilling benedictine.

Poultry Question Solved at Library

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Librarians, who, like policemen, are supposed to know everything, have been called upon for information by butter and egg men, not the comedy type, but those who deal in poultry and produce.

A local produce dealer who handles his stock in carload lots, recently wanted to scale a tare allowance for undressed fowls and applied to the reference department of the library to find out how much to allow.

Search of files revealed that some time ago agricultural stations conducted a survey and reached certain deductions, which may now become a basis of future transactions between poultrymen and middlemen.

However, there is considerable range as the survey revealed that chickens average three to six ounces of feathers, depending upon size and species.

The House of David baseball team—the bewiskered players hailing from Benton Harbor, Mich.—are making a barnstorming tour on the coast this spring.

In 1825, at Cheshire, England, Jack Jones defeated Patsy Tunney in a fight that lasted 276 rounds.

NAMING NAVAL VESSELS NOT EASY PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The selection of names for new vessels of war, especially cruisers, is always a problem because of the interest aroused among chambers of commerce and other local organizations which desire to have their cities honored at the christening.

Bids have been invited by the navy department for three cruisers, and since that is the only class of war vessels which bears the names of cities, the competition is already keen. In addition, names must be chosen soon for six river gunboats under construction in China. The method of selecting names for them has not been determined.

That is about the only type of warcraft for which a naming system has not been devised. Battleships are named after states, while the names of naval officers who have given distinctive service are always chosen for the destroyers and the light mine-layers.

To the field of ornithology the navy turns for the names of mine-sweepers, such as the Robin, Quail, and Teal. Submarines are designated by letters and numerals, each letter indicating a type and the number the sequence of the vessel in that type.

Old frigates or aviation pioneers, and rivers are used for designation of the oil tankers, while the colliers are named after characters of mythology, and cargo ships after the stars. The two hospital ships were given the characteristic names, Relief and Mercy.

Record Is Made In Appendix Cut

CLOVIS, N. M., March 25.—C. C. Bear, train dispatcher at Amarillo, Tex., broke speed records on the operating table in Clovis, when his appendix was removed in 12 minutes flat. In 30 minutes after the first incision he was in bed, reading a continued story he had dropped when the surgeons announced they were ready. Bear regards appendectomy as "just a passing incident in a slow day."

Our Neighbors

REDLANDS.—During the past week there were shipped from Redlands citrus district, 355 cars of navel oranges, setting a new record. These 355 cars of oranges will be sold in the east for probably about two-thirds of a million dollars or better than $850,000, which is a good week's business. The total naval shipments from the district are now more than $100 cars for the season—a business of more than $3,000,000, most of which has been done since January 1. The navel season is nearing an end. The bulk of the shipments are now gone although there will be 600 cars or more of oranges to be shipped yet. All packing houses of the district, more than 20 of them are packing at the present time.

LONG BEACH.—Another absorption plant in the new Alamitos Heights field will be built within the next 30 days. That was the statement today of John M. Abrams, petroleum producer and gas engineer, who has joined hands with the Standard Engineering company, Los Angeles, in planning the new unit. The plant will have a minimum capacity of 10,000 gallons of gasoline per day. Abrams has been busily engaged during the past few days in rounding up contracts with independent producers in the new field to handle their supply of wet gas. He said he already had several valuable contracts and that he is now negotiating for additional ones.

SAN BERNARDINO.—A cash balance of $229,128.59 was on deposit in the city treasury of San Bernardino March 1, compared with a balance of $350,762.66 on February 1, according to the City Council, filed by Treasurer A. A. Burcham. Disbursements during February aggregated $21,835.69, among the municipal departments, receipts amounting to $280,964.28, including the balance of February 1.

SAN BERNARDINO.—Federal forestry service employees finished the major part of the first year's planting at the government's Devil canyon experiment station late yesterday. Established two months ago, the nursery now contains 54,000 pines of a dozen different species, besides several thousand seeds and a few types of brush and shrub growths. Within the next year there should be at least 50,000 trees ready for transplanting throughout the fire-devastated slopes of the San Bernardino national forest, Supervisor S. A. Nash-Boulden predicted yesterday. A year later that number will be doubled or trebled. In addition to the 54,000 trees in the nursery, there are nearly 1000 more in the arboretum department, designed, not for planting but for experimentation to determine their adaptability to Southern California climatic conditions. Some of these arboretum types are extremely rare and do not grow naturally in any part of the United States.

REAPER LEADS STORK IN RACE OVER ENGLAND

LONDON, March 25.—The registrar general's quarterly return shows that 10,419 fewer births, 27,959 more deaths, including 1700 deaths from influenza, were recorded in England and Wales during the last quarter of 1926, when compared with the preceding quarter.

In a brief survey of the statistics for the year it is stated that 694,897 births and 453,795 deaths were registered in England and Wales in 1926. The natural increase of population, by excess of births over deaths, was, therefore, 241,102, the average annual increase in the preceding seven years having been 298,263. The marriage rate in England and Wales during the year 1926 was 14.3 per 1000 of the estimated population, the birth rate of 17.8 per 1000, and the death rate 11.6 per 1000. Infant mortality was 70 per 1000 registered births.

The birth rate was the lowest recorded except during the war year, 1918; the death rate was equal to the lowest rate yet recorded (1923), and the infant mortality was five below that recorded in the previous year.

The return states that the births registered numbered 164,489, and were 1871 below the number recorded in the corresponding quarter of 1925.

ELEPHANT AHOY!

Miss Billy Mack of the Al. G. Barnes Circus and her four-ton elephant playmate "Pearl."

Al. G. Barnes circus will exhibit on West Fifth street, Santa Ana next Monday. Coming with this excellent circus are many new features to be presented for the first time this year, the principal among which will be the elaborate spectacle of "Aladdin and the Parade of Gold," 180 performing horses headed by "San Marcus," the $16,000 equine star, the zebra round-up, with the biggest herd in captivity in America, and many other original novelties.

No street parade will be given in this or any other city by the Al. G. Barnes circus, due to the increased size of the show and the time necessary for the presentation of the spectacle of "Aladdin."

MUCH INTEREST MANIFESTED IN SCHOOL RACES

With women having a prominent place on the ballot in several districts and with various problems affecting school policies and administration methods as the principle issues in many contests the voters in all high school and elementary school districts throughout the county except the city of Santa Ana, today went to the polls to elect school trustees. Members of the Santa Ana city board of education are elected at the regular city elections.

Today's elections cover eight high school and 45 elementary school districts. In each high school district, composed of five members, two new trustees are elected; in each elementary school district, made up of three members, one new trustee is elected.

Paulino elementary school district, in which the voters last year failed to manifest interest in school affairs and neglected to name a school board, will this time elect three members.

Trustees elected today will take office on May 1 and serve for a period of three years.

In several places the public has been aroused to a keen state of excitement and a spirited race is predicted. This is especially true of Huntington Beach, where there is a contest both in the high school and elementary school district.

The big outstanding feature of this year's election, inquiries disclosed, is the interest taken by women voters and as individual citizens. In this connection predictions were made that several women candidates would be returned to office.

OLD GERMAN BIBLE IS OWNED IN S. A.

A German Bible, believed to be 200 years old or more, owned by Mrs. Frank W. Morris, of 515 South Broadway, Santa Ana, was taken to Pasadena today by the owner for the inspection of experts at the Henry E. Huntington library.

The "Biblia" bears the name of Jean Michael Lobstein as the first owner and is printed from a translation by Martin Luther Seel, with collaboration of Johann Sebastian Bach, the work of translating having been started in 1522 and concluded 1534.

The Bible went through the Franco-Prussian war and the Milwaukee fire and is remarkably well preserved. The printing is very distinct and the reproductions from wood cuts are as plain as modern day printing. Mrs. Morris said her father had been offered $700 for the Bible a number of years ago. She has kept the treasured volume in a safety deposit box of the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank.

MAJOR MOSLEY OF AIR SERVICE HEARD BY CLUB

Commercial aviation is worthy of encouragement, if for no other reason than for the building up an industry that may be used quickly and effectively should the United States ever become involved in another war, in the opinion of Major C. C. Mosley, of the Western Air Express, the company operating the mail and passenger line between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

Mosley was the speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club, and he presented many interesting facts concerning aviation and was enthusiastic in his declaration that development of air defense craft is being retarded by failure of the army and navy to get together in harmonious endeavor to advance this type of defense.

Says Mitchell Was Right
Major Mosley had experience over seas and resigned from the army a little more than a year ago to engage in commercial aviation. He declared that Col. William Mitchell was absolutely correct in his public charges against the government's policy of aviation development.

Emphasizing the jealousy existing in the two branches of the government, he cited the development of an engine by the navy which the navy refused to permit the army to use in its planes, while at the same time it was possible for a private individual to procure one of the motors.

Explaining the asserted fact that Europe is more advanced in the development of aircraft, Major Mosley said that this situation was the direct result of subsidization of commercial aviation. The speaker declared that the government pays commercial organizations so much per mile for a certain mileage each year. This, he said, encouraged the industry in the building of planes and development of a high class type of pilots, adjuncts which he declared would be invaluable to Europe in warfare.

Declaring that flying is as natural as walking, and stressing the point of safety, the aviator said control of a plane is as simple as the operation of an automobile, and he detailed some of the methods for control of ships. He made the further declaration that modern planes will right themselves in tailspin and loops even should the motor go "dead."

Old men can operate planes just as efficiently as young men, the speaker commented, and then he pointed out as erroneous, the impression that piloting a ship is a job for young men only. He said this general impression had been the result of the employment of young men only during the war, and he asserted young men were given preference because, as a rule, they were more venturesome and keener for thrills than older men.

Air Express Succeeds

Describing operations of his own company, Major Mosley said that since institution of the service between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City a year ago, company planes had flown 400,000 miles without a single fat accident, and with only two machines being forced to landings. He said this record was due to efficiency in maintenance of the machines, and he made impressive the fact that after a one-way trip between the two points a machine is kept in a hangar for two days, with mechanics spending that time in making a thorough check of every part of a plane. He stated that the average mail shipment today was 350 pounds, as against an average of 70 pounds a day carried the first few months of the service.

Pictures of the bombing by planes of ex-German war craft off the coast of Virginia, and other features of plane bombing were shown. One reel of pictures also was shown featuring Wright brothers in their first attempts at flying. Martin bombing planes were used in the tests, he said, reference being made to Glenn L. Martin, Santa Ana man who has made himself world famous by plane building. Major Mosley also announced that Fred Kelly, former El Modena man, in one of the Western's crew of pilots, Kelly became prominent when he won the hurdles in the Olympics in Belgium in 1912. Harold E. Wahlberg operated the moving picture machine.

Wilshire's I-ON-A-CO

Patent Granted

Canadian Government Allows Original Claims and Grants Patent on WILSHIRE'S IONACO March 21, 1927

The same patent claims that were granted by the Canadian Government are now before the United States Government in their consideration of the application pending for the granting of a patent to Gaylord Wilshire.

If the United States follows the precedent set by Canada and allows IONACO a patent, all infringers—buyers, sellers and users of imitations of IONACO—are liable to penalty.

A statement made in a recent newspaper advertisement by a cheap imitation of IONACO said "no patents can be obtained." This advertisement evidently was not seen by the Canadian government!

WILSHIRE'S IONACO is the first patented magnetic therapeutic appliance ever successfully marketed. That there are so-called similar devices and make-shifts speaks loudly for IONACO. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

WHENEVER a new article is put on the market and proves itself highly successful over any considerable period of time, imitations—often of dubious value—are brought out to take advantage of the advertising of the original article.

I wish to definitely state that every personal resource as well as the resources of the Iona Company stand behind each genuine IONACO sold.

Ionaco Is a Trademark

The genuine article has the trademark embossed on the cover with the Company Seal. Each genuine IONACO carries a serial number stamped into its seal.

Many thousands of people up and down the Pacific Coast as well as residents of every state in the Union and practically every country on the globe, have bought and are using the IONACO with satisfactory results. We have in our files, records and testimonials from people in all walks of life telling of marked improvement in their health as a result of their IONACO treatments.

Restores Health Rapidly

Practically every known disease has responded to IONACO treatments, as evidenced by the testimonials.

I consider it only fair to those who have bought genuine IONACOS to make this announcement regarding imitations of IONACO. Such imitations are NOT the same as the genuine IONACO and carry in no way the intensive IONACO Medical Service that goes with each IONACO in use. Every IONACO sold has my personal guarantee behind it as well as the guarantee of this Company. There is only one IONACO—WILSHIRE'S IONACO.

$1,000,000 BEACH CLUB WILL BE BUILT ON ORANGE COUNTY SHORE NEAR NEWPORT

Involving more than $1,000,000, the South Coast Club will be erected on the ocean front between Huntington Beach and Newport. Backed by many prominent citizens of Orange and Los Angeles counties, the project is said to be completely financed and work scheduled to commence immediately.

WATER SYSTEM COMPLETED IN OLD CEMETERY

With installation of a complete new water system in the old Santa Ana cemetery finished, water now is available to lot owners who want to plant lawns or shrubbery in burial grounds that served this community in the early days of its history and which are used to some extent even today.

The cemetery has passed to the class of abandoned burial grounds and now is being handled by a commission representing cemetery district No. 1. With funds raised by a tax, the commission, in time, will restore the old grounds to their original condition, so far as ornamentation is concerned. Pointing out that Decoration day is approaching and stating that abundant rains of the winter have resulted in a heavy growth of weeds on lots, Verne Whitson, member of the commission, today issued an appeal to lot owners to take an interest in making the grounds presentable on that day.

"The commission will not have funds this year to do all the work necessary to clean up the place," Whitson said, in directing attention to the fact that installation of the water system has required most of the funds available for the first year of operation of the cemetery district.

Hydrants have been placed throughout the cemetery in such positions that any lot may be watered with use of a 20-foot garden hose, it was said. Whitson said that lot owners who do not have the time or inclination to do the actual work of cleaning up their properties could make arrangements with James O'Brien, superintendent of the cemetery, to have the work done at a nominal cost.

Henpecked Men To Convene Soon

LONDON, March 25.—A very queer club is looking forward to its yearly meeting during Easter week, namely the "Honorable and Ancient Order of Hen-Pecked Husbands."

The club, which originated in Halifax, is unique, at least in title. The membership qualification is sufficiently set out by the name of the club, nor is it at all sufficient for the candidate for election to prove that he is a husband, and therefore in the natural course of nature, hen-pecked. He must go further, and make a positive declaration of his wrongs.

The club's great day comes on the Easter holiday, when the members secretly assemble to picnic at some unknown rendezvous undisturbed by the sound of feminine tongues. In sober truth, the whole thing is a huge joke, and there are even those who say that the picnic baskets of the "hen-pecked husbands" are packed for them by their wives, only too glad to get rid of their "lords and masters" for the day.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, March 25.—The Missionary society of the local Presbyterian church held its regular monthly meeting Thursday at the church. Mrs. Hugh McHinch, president presided over the meeting.

Mrs. D. McLaughlin is seriously ill at her home in Capistrano.

The steam shovel commenced work on the Hot Springs road Thursday. The county road department has added another tractor and grader to the equipment now being used by the crew working on the road.

Mrs. Lee of Villa Park, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Roy Smith.

Mrs. Carl Hankey shopped in Santa Ana Tuesday. Miss Ruth Russell, of New York City, is visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Isabella Henry, of the Old Adobe studio.

Mrs. Burt Ostot, Mrs. Harry Barnes, Mrs. Dan McHenry and Mrs. David Ross are planning to attend a performance of the Mission play at San Gabriel one day at the first of next week.

Walter McClure, who is now connected with the Ford agency at Oceanside, was in town Wednesday.

J. S. Malcom, principal of the local high school, plans to attend the principals' convention to be held at San Jose during the week beginning April 11.

Prominent Persons Put Up Finances for Project; Construct Cottages

Plans have been completed for the new $1,000,000 South Coast club, scheduled to rise on the ocean front between Huntington Beach and Newport, according to E. A. Bischoff, vice president of the organization, who says further that the project is backed by prominent Los Angeles and Orange county residents.

"The club has purchased a site with a 1550 foot ocean frontage. It was bought from the Pacific Beach club, a negro project, for a consideration said to exceed $225,000," says Bischoff. "The land is now held in the name of the South Coast Development corporation, the incorporated name of the new exclusive seaside group."

"Plans indicate that a three-story clubhouse, 70 by 400 feet, will be constructed. Boyd and Vaughn, Los Angeles architects in charge of the development, declare that work will be started at once. It is understood that the contract to build this unit has been let to the Mathis Construction Company."

Financing, it is said, has been arranged completely, and will not depend upon membership sale. Mr. Bischoff points out that the club is an assured project and continues:

"The ground floor of the building will contain a plunge, dressing and locker rooms, showers, grill kitchen, and heating, ventilating and purging plants."

"The main floor will contain office rooms, lounges, a large ballroom, dining room, promenade terrace, fountain, and large sun court. The second and third floors will be devoted to game rooms, private dining rooms, banquet rooms, and guest rooms."

"Two hundred artistic beach cottages will be built on the strand that adjoins the site of the clubhouse."

The board of governors include the following: J. P. Baumgartner, Chet Crank, W. J. Carmichael, C. D. Brown, James S. Lawshe, C. P. Patton, Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, L. C. Rauch, Arthur Lee, Frank L. Miller, Mrs. Burdette Norton, Franklin B. Cole, William L. Miller, Harry K. Vaughn, and J. R. Chelew.

Fishermen Enjoy 'Sheila's Brush'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 25.—Newfoundland fisher-folk have just enjoyed one of their most eagerly looked-forward-to holidays of the year, known as "Sheila's Brush."

Primarily the word "brush" in the dialect of the island means a storm or blizzard and because fishing is impossible at such times a "brush" has come to mean a cessation of work, in short, a holiday.

Newfoundland has two brushes, Patrick's and Sheila's, that is to say storms supposed to be connected with the birthday of St. Patrick and that of Sheila his wife. Of course, these atmospheric disturbances, corresponding to what are usually termed the equinoctial gales, do not always come exactly to date, but any storms coming about this time are named in honor of these saints.

LATHROP TAKES JUNIOR HIGH TRACK TITLE

S. A. To Face Record Entry List at Chaffey

600 ATHLETES,
TRACK CLASSIC

Breeding and Bear Hope to Break Present Marks in
Mile, Two Sprint Races

Hopeful of repeating its success in the Huntington Beach Southern Counties meet Coach "Tex" Oliver's
Santa Ana high school track squad, 24 strong, will embark at an early hour tomorrow for Ontario to participate in the second annual Chaffey Invitational meet, a classic that has attracted the largest number of entries of any meet ever held in California.

Twenty-seven schools in the Southland will send a total of almost 600 athletes to the Chaffey affair, according to E. W. Fischer, Chaffey high school vice principal,
who is in charge of arrangements.
So many institutions desired to take part that Fischer was forced to refuse entry lists from several because of a limitation of facilities.

Poly Hopes For Win
Santa Ana's athletes came through 100 per cent at Huntington Beach last week and Coach Oliver believes they stand a chance of taking this huge field into camp also although he realizes the competition will be considerably stronger. Ontario newspapers believe that the championship cup rests between Santa Ana, Glendale, Huntington
Park and Chaffey.

Three cups, 10 statuettes and 72 medals in gold, sterling silver and bronze will be awarded winners.
At least two Poly athletes, Captain Harvey Bear and Harold Breeding, have outside chances of establishing new records. Bear won both sprints at Huntington Beach but tomorrow he will go against Glendale's ace, Wyckoff and Clo-cum, and he will have to be at his best to take their measure. Breeding holds the meet record for the mile, 4 minutes, 45 seconds, and will be a heavy favorite not only to win this race again but to better his own time.

Here Are S. A. Entries
The Poly entries follow:
Open events—100 and 220: Bear,
Stephenson; 44: Carlyle, Warner;

HORNSBY MENTIONED AS NEXT
LEADER OF GIANTS; MCGRAW READY TO STEP OUT, CLAIM

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, March 25.—After watching the way in which Rogers Hornsbey took hold of his new job with the New York Giants and the enthusiasm with which he carried out his job as captain, there are many who think that John McGraw wants him to manage the club when he retires.

It is one of the surest indications of spring to hear that McGraw is starting his last season with the Giants but it's bound to come because some season must be his last and there are reasons to believe that he is getting ready to get out of active participation in field duties of the club.

McGraw is starting his twenty-fifth season as manager of the Giants and there were indications last year that he was tiring of the strain of handling a pennant contender or that he was cracking under the strain.

Had Frisch in Mind
From sources close to the club it was known that McGraw had Frank Frisch in mind as a possible successor but when Frisch passed a couple of signals last year and blew some games, McGraw is said to have marked him off as a possibility. He not only removed him from the list of candidates but he traded him away to the St.

Louis Cardinals.

Hornsbey is said to be drawing a salary of $40,000 and while that certainly is not a sum to be sneezed at he signed with such alacrity that there were reasons to believe that he had been given other inducements to come to terms with his new employers.

Before McGraw reported to the Sarasota training camp, Hornsbey assumed his duties as captain with so much authority that he actually was in charge of the camp and the other players played right along with him.

Some of the critics have said that the St. Louis Cardinals made Hornsbey successful as a manager and that he had very little to do with the management of the club but the results do not bear out this contention.

Spirit Kept Men Together
It was drive more than superior class that kept the team in the top of a hot pennant fight and it was spirit that kept the players to-

FROM POLY AS KORAL PITCHES

Bomo Koral, erstwhile third baseman, and his pitching baptism yesterday and he went to the knoll with the most difficult assignment any member of the Santa Ana high school mound staff has faced this year.

Going against a legitimate college varsity, that of Calteck, Koral was beaten, 12 to 2, but he didn't look so bad as the score would implicate. The visitors hit him safely 11 times but Koral's support might have prevented several runs.

Orville Schuchardt, center fielder, drove in both of Poly's runs.

AMERICAN LEAGUE DEBUT

Rube Marquard, famous southpaw of National league fame, is to perform in the American league.
At least, Rube has high hopes of doing so.

I bumped into Marquard at Tampa, Fla., recently. He had just finished pitching to the Washington batters for about 20 minutes. Some of the very good left-handed batters on the club were having trouble solving Rube's assortment.

As a matter of fact, he looked so good to Clark Griffith and Manager Stanley Harris that it was definitely decided to add him to the staff of twirlers, provided he continued his fine showing over the training season.

The day I saw Marquard in action Walter Johnson suffered a broken bone in his left ankle. No doubt that helped him win extra consideration.

HIGH-PRICED BEAUTY

Marquard has been pitching his league baseball almost as long as Walter Johnson. He came to the National league about the same time Johnson made his debut in the American.

For a couple of years Marquard has been toiling in the minors.
Last season he managed and Coach Ferris Scott's Julia C.

Lathrop high school squad today was undisputed track and field champion of Santa Ana grammar schools following the decisive victories of both his intermediate and senior teams over those of Frances E. Willard junior high school in the final dual meets of the junior high school season at Lathrop field yesterday.

Scott's intermediates nosed out the Willard "inters" by an even 10 points, winning 29 1-2 to 19 1-2, while the Lathrop seniors made their margin more impressive, the count being 33 1-2 to 14 1-2.

The victory entitled Julia Lathrop to this year's possession of the Neal-Dyas perpetual trophy, which will be awarded the winner in the annual dual meet between the two local junior high schools by T. J. Neal, local sporting goods dealer. Neal will give a similar trophy to the winner of the annual baseball series between the institutions.

With these two under their belts,
Scott's athletes now claim victory in three out of the four dual meets between the two local institutions. The Lathrop squad beat the North Main streeters in the junior, intermediate and senior divisions, losing only the midwest meet, and rolled up a grand total of 127 1-2 points to 67 1-2 in the four competitions.

Forrest, Lathrop, turned in one of the most creditable performances when he high-jumped 5 feet, 3 inches. Page, Lathrop, surprised the dopesters by coming through with a leap of 15 feet, 3 3-4 inches in the broad jump, a mark that earned him a tie for first place with Norman Paul, Frances Willard's stellar athlete.

Stroup, Lathrop, won the 8-pound shot with a shove of 42 feet, 5 3-4 inches and Gordon, Lathrop, captured the 75-yard dash.

Fullerton yesterday afternoon. As a result of the victory, the Poly

One more game remains to be it is possible that the Orange co-is not held likely.

Miss Alverda West, girls' coach, used the strongest combination of players against Fullerton. Both school teams entered the game with undefeated records and the battle for scores was closely con-neither team was able to make a by Miss Sherill Spurgeon started

Santa Ana on the way to win.

In the third quarter, additional

S. A. To Face Record Entry List at Chaffey

600 ATHLETES,
TRACK CLASSIC

Breeding and Bear Hope to Break Present Marks in
Mile, Two Sprint Races

Hopeful of repeating its success in the Huntington Beach Southern Counties meet Coach "Tex" Oliver's Santa Ana high school track squad, 24 strong, will embark on an early hour tomorrow for Ontario to participate in the second annual Chaffey Invitational meet, a classic that has attracted the largest number of entries of any meet ever held in California.

Twenty-seven schools in the Southland will send a total of almost 600 athletes to the Chaffey affair, according to E. W. Fischer, Chaffey high school vice principal, who is in charge of arrangements. So many institutions desired to take part that Fischer was forced to refuse entry lists from several because of a limitation of facilities.

Poly Hopes For Win
Santa Ana's athletes came through 100 per cent at Huntington Beach last week and Coach Oliver believes they stand a chance of taking this huge field into camp as well as the competition. The competition will be considerably stronger. Ontario newspapers believe that the championship cup rests between Santa Ana, Glendale, Huntington Park and Chaffey.

Three cups, 10 statuettes and 72 medals in gold, sterling silver and bronze will be awarded winners. At least two Poly athletes, Captain Harvey Bear and Harold Breeding, have outside chances of establishing new records. Bear won both sprints at Huntington Beach but tomorrow he will go against Glendale's ace, Wyckoff and Cloum, and he will have to be at his best to take their measure. Breeding holds the meet record for the mile, 4 minutes, 45 seconds, and will be a heavy favorite not only to win this race again but to better his own time.

Here Are S. A. Entries
The Poly entries follow:

HORNSBY MENTIONED AS NEXT LEADER OF GIANTS; MCGRAW READY TO STEP OUT, CLAIM

(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, March 25.—After watching the way in which Rogers Hornsby took hold of his new job with the New York Giants and the enthusiasm with which he carried out his job as captain, there are many who think that John McGraw wants him to manage the club when he retires.

It is one of the surest indications of spring to hear that McGraw is starting his last season with the Giants but it's bound to come because some season must be his last and there are reasons to believe that he is getting ready to get out of active participation in field duties of the club.

McGraw is starting his twenty-fifth season as manager of the Giants and there were indications last year that he was tiring of the strain of handling a pennant contender or that he was cracking under the strain.

Had Frisch in Mind

From sources close to the club it was known that McGraw had Frank Frisch in mind as a possible successor but when Frisch missed a couple of signals last year and blew some games, McGraw is said to have marked him off as a possibility. He not only removed him from the list of candidates but he traded him away to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hornsby is said to be drawing a salary of $40,000 and while that certainly is not a sum to be sneezed at he signed with such alacrity that there were reasons to believe that he had been given other inducements to come to terms with his new employers.

Before McGraw reported to the Sarasota training camp, Hornsby assumed his duties as captain with so much authority that he actually was in charge of the camp and the other players played right along with him.

Some of the critics have said that the St. Louis Cardinals made Hornsby successful as a manager and that he had very little to do with the management of the club but the results do not bear out this contention.

Spirit Kept Men Together
It was drive more than superior class that kept the team in the top of a hot pennant fight and it was spirit that kept the players to-

PICK TROJANS TO WIN FROM GOLDEN BEARS

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Coach Dean Cromwell refuses to accept the dopesters' calculations for tomorrow's U. S. C.-California track engagement at the Coliseum, declaring that the real decision of the day will hinge on the relay.

Collegiate rivalry will be the real goal for the Berkeley tracksters, which factor was probably lacking when they fell before the L. A. A. C. last week.

Borah and House of the Trojans are conceded first and second places in both dashes, with Talbot, Bear 440-man and winner of the event last year favored to repeat. If Smith and Parsons are put in the sprints instead of the 440 the Trojans should make a clean sweep in those events.

Boyd, of California, appears the class of the 880-yard run.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

pitched for Providence in the Eastern league.

It will be recalled that he was one of the original high-priced minor league stars. The New York club paid something like $11,000 to the Indianapolis club for Marquard, tossing in a few extra players for good measure.

That was a lot of money in those days and "Rube" was much press-agented. He made a bad start and some of the critics were inclined to refer to him as the $11,000 lemon instead of beauty.

In 1916 he was the big sensation of the National league, winning 19 straight games. Under McGraw he became one of the best southpaws in the game.

BELIEVES HE CAN DELIVER

Marquard feels that he has enough stuff to win for the Washington club. Possibly he has. However, it is a habit of the veteran pitchers to still believe in themselves, remembering only the days of their glory.

I umpired back of Marquard around Cleveland before he went to the minors and later to the majors. Naturally I was surprised when I dropped in at the Washington camp and saw "Rube" curving them over.

"I've been around to several of the camps," explained Marquard, "and after watching a number of the young southpaws in action, concluded I still have enough stuff to win."

"Why, I have as much speed left as some of these husky youngsters; a better curve ball right now and I always could get 'em over."

Marquard will come in mighty handy for the rather uncertain staff of the Nationals, if he is as good as he believes he is.

BAKER UPSETS STRATEGY

Back in 1911 Christy Mathewson and Rube Marquard figured in an unusual episode that for a time nearly caused a ban on player-writing.

At that time the two were outstanding stars on the New York Giants' pitching staff. A big newspaper syndicate had signed them to write about the game.

In one game Marquard threw a fast one in Frank Baker's "groove," which he hit for a home run, deciding the ball game. The next day Mathewson, under his name, told why Marquard had pitched wrong to Baker.

That same day pitching against the Athletics, Mathewson, with two out, was leading, 1-0. Then he somehow got one in Baker's "groove." There was another home run and the game was tied up. Later New York was beaten in extra innings.

That incident caused much comment, nearly disrupted the morale of the Giants, and for a time almost caused a ban to be put on player-writing.

HORNSBY MAY BE NEXT GIANT PILOT

gether and Hornsby put the spirit in them and kept them going.

If McGraw should win the pennant this year and Hornsby lives up to expectations, it would be no surprise if the Giant manager retires.

He has a great ambition to celebrate his silver jubilee with a pennant and after that there would be very little left for him in the way of glory. He always has taken pride in building pennant winners and most of his success has been achieved by his skill in tearing down clubs and rebuilding them.

The strain of the 1926 pennant race told on him severely. He rode the team unmercifully and worked himself into such a nervous condition that he couldn't sleep. During a late series in St. Louis the Giants played some very bad ball and when mistakes in judgment lost several games he became so aroused that he walked the streets all one night.

Long Time to Manage Club

Twenty-five years ago, a long time to spend in the management of a club especially under the system followed by McGraw. He had to play every game just as much as if he were on the field and the strain was greater because he had to take the punishment when he sat on the bench and saw the players doing things he thought they should not be doing.

For years he has been directing every play and ordering nearly every ball pitched and that is some job.

He has a good ball club this year and if he allows Hornsby to share some of the responsibility of management, the strain will not be nearly so severe on him.

2 AMERICANS LEFT IN U. S. NET TOURNEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 25.—After almost a week of attempts to find an adequate defense of American tennis against another formidable French invasion, one pair out of 100 American aspirants survived today in the national indoor championship tournament.

The survivors that will meet the French stars in the semi-final round this afternoon are not the pair that was delegated unofficially last week to battle for the fading prestige of the American game.

Until late afternoon yesterday, it was an odds-on bet that Dr. George King and Francis T. Hunter would battle in the semi-final rounds against the French aces, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon.

But when the quarter final round had ended, Hunter and young Jack Van Ryn, a Princeton college boy were the survivors.

The greatest surprise was in the match between Dr. King and Van Ryn, which Van Ryn won 10-8, 6-2.

Van Ryn went into the semi-finals as the opponent of Brugnon, who had been extended to beat Louis B. Dally, Jr., 6-3, 6-4.

But when the quarter final round had ended, Hunter and young Jack Van Ryn, a Princeton college boy were the survivors.

The defeat of Dr. King made it appear that there might be two Frenchmen in the final round fighting for another American cup.

Playing the game that he did against Dr. King, Van Ryn would have more than an even chance to beat Brugnon, but he is young and rather inexperienced, and his perfection yesterday may have been the result of one of those inspired days that come to college boys.

In the lower half, Borotra has to be made the favorite over Hunter because he is more consistent.

CARDS DEFEAT L. A. CLUB IN EXCITING MEET

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Stanford's Cardinals returned to Palo Alto today, with the scalps of the L. A. A. C. Mercuries safe in custody, as the result of upsets that gave the northerners yesterday's meet, 71 to 60.

Charley Paddock, the "fastest human," lived up to expectations and annexed both the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Ward Edmonds, Redshirt vaulter, gave the big surprise of the day by clearing the bar at 12 feet to defeat Graham and the Smith brothers, all of whom are capable of that height.

Ross Nichols of Stanford nosed out Captain Bob Maxwell in a 14-4-5 seconds hurdle race to win by inches.

"Biff" Hoffman of the Cardinals came from behind on his last heave in the discus throw to defeat Moeller of the Mercuries, the favorite in the event.

Richmann, Stanford ace, added another jolt for the Mercury hopes when he took second place in the furlong from Pinney of the Mercuries.

Stanford's zeal in stepping into the game on numerous close finishes for second and third places added to the tide of victory that more than counterbalanced the Mercury victory last year.

Suffering Wild Cats!

We'll tell the cock-eyed world that our opening day last Saturday was a bear cat and right now we thank you for your wonderful patronage and we know that you were all satisfied as to quality and prices. The service, we have to apologize for. Tomorrow we'll have more help, but we sure thought five men could serve you. There were times when we wished we had five more. Remember, if any one wasn't satisfied with quality or prices, your money is waiting for you, we don't want it—it's yours and we want you to have it. Now, tomorrow, we'll have the best compound, 3-lb. limit, at, per lb. 10c, and pure lard, 3-lb. limit, per lb. 15c—and hamburger, say, you never tasted such good hamburger. You should worry how much money we lose on it—any way it's only 10c lb.—and then, beef hearts, real fresh at 12 1/2 c lb. Beef brains at 15c each; fresh beef tongues, 20c lb.; loin pork chops, 35c lb.; pork steaks, 30c lb.; beef roasts, 12 1/2 c, 15c and 17c lb. (none higher, except prime rib beef with bone in, 18c lb. and rolled roasts, 23c). Veal roasts, 17c and 20c lb.; veal stew, 12 1/2 c lb.; country style sausage, oh my, only 12 1/2 c lb.—yes it's good—All pork? No. Sliced bacon, 30c, 35c, 40c, 45c and 50c lb.—and it's all Eastern bacon. We won't have a steak in the market at over 25c lb., except T-Bone, it's 28c lb.; shoulders of pork, whole, 20c lb.; legs lamb, 30c lb. and loin and rib lamb chops only 35c—yes, they are good, too; lamb stew at 15c lb. Don't let anyone tell you that this isn't good meat, it is! You'll get your money back without a word if for any reason whatever you aren't satisfied. Yes, we know that they say "How does he do it?" That is our business, we paid real money for it and we'll give it away if we want to. Then, we have boneless beef stew at 15c lb. We also have some nice soup bones real cheap. Oh say, we nearly forgot—200 packages of Hauser's Pride bacon at only 28c, and each package, remember each package now, besides containing 1/2 lb. of fine bacon also contains from 5c to $1.00. One package to each customer—well we might let you have two if your family is large. Now I guess we had better stop, this ad will cost enough now and we don't think the Register needs the money anyway. Come and see us, as you won't regret it!

USE OF RAYON AS RIVAL FOR SILK IS URGED

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Development of the rayon industry, producing a rival of silk, made from wood cellulose, is suggested by Representative Albert Johnson, Washington, to offset loss of this country's lumber market in Japan that would follow increased customs duties on lumber being considered by the Japanese government. Japan now takes from this country about one billion feet of lumber a year, only a very small part of which could be absorbed by the domestic market if the proposed prohibitive rates are put into effect.

In proposing that the departments of commerce and agriculture undertake a study to determine the possibilities of other than lumber uses for wood, Representative Johnson points out:

Waste Problem Created
"The Japanese in buying the so-called squares, which are really nothing more than logs reduced to a square cross-section, have been taking the sawwood with the heartwood, the high-quality wood with the low quality, the flat grain with the edge grain. When these same squares are further sawed into boards, timbers and dimensions adapted to the domestic market the poorer material is found to be unmarketable. The home market, owing to a variety of reasons, can not absorb this relatively inferior lumber, even though it may be absolutely of good quality. Adding this potential waste to that already unavoidable—owing partly to inadequate home markets for lower grades of lumber—will create a waste problem that should challenge the energetic and immediate attention of science and invention."

Foremost among developments in the better utilization of wood in the past few years, Mr. Johnson says, has been the fabrication of various fiber products derived from wood cellulose, and supreme among them has been the invention of rayon, the production of which is rapidly increasing.

"The double importance of this outlet for the surplus of forest products now going to the Japanese markets," Mr. Johnson said, "should not be overlooked, for it will at once replace the necessity of exporting lumber and importing silks, thus contributing to national self-containment and independence. If the Department of commerce and the department of agriculture do not have sufficient facilities for conducting necessary investigations, liberal provision should be promptly be made for them by the government."

Progress is Made
Progress already made by the rayon industry is recognized by the commerce department, which, in a report to Congress some while back, on "foreign combinations to control prices of raw materials," had this to say:

"Since we have a silk industry in this country involving, in 1919, invested capital between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000 and producing in 1923 silk goods valued at something like $800,000,000 from an economic point of view silk is indispensable to the maintenance of this industry, but in another way it is not. We could get along without a pound of silk if it was absolutely necessary, except possibly for one or two war purposes, such as its use in parachutes and gunpowder bags. Rayon, a new fiber which has been developed and come into its own within the past few years, might replace every pound of silk if it was absolutely necessary. The silk mills in this country could be adapted to the use of this fiber; some of them are using it now."

Facial Features Of Notables Are Filmed for Study

LONDON, March 25.—Ninety-six English notables' facial features are to be shown on the film to illustrate their individual characteristics.

Sir Oliver Lodge was among the first to volunteer to pose before the camera for the "stunt." He was quickly followed by Lord and Lady Oxford and Asquith, Lady Rhonda, George Bernard Shaw, Lloyd George, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Dame Clara Butt and Sir Thomas Lipton.

Features of the notables will be shown, bit by bit, this being sort of an analysis designed to display their predominant temperaments. Afterwards, the whole will be shown synthesized in a "close-up."

Loses Wildcat;
Woman Annoyed

NEVADA CITY, March 25.—To have her more or less pet wildcat stolen bodily from its cage was extremely annoying to Mrs. L. Persico, a resident of this place who maintains a small menagerie, but the disappearance of "Porky," her favorite porcupine, was beyond all endurance and a complaint was lodged with the town marshal. She has offered a reward for the return of "Porky," of which she is very fond.

Gold Nuggets Are Found in Chickens

WALLA WALLA, Wn., March 25.—Six gold nuggets, taken from the crops of two chickens, are on display here while J. D. Walter, who "cleaned up," is trying to ascertain from what ranch he obtained the chickens. Five of the nuggets were taken from the crop of one hen, Walter said.

FRANCE GIVES LEGION RIBBON TO 3 ARTISANS

PARIS, March 25.—Following a policy established not long ago, the French government this year has bestowed three Legion of Honor crosses on working men. Le Journal recently told the story of one of these new legionnaires—Jean Marie Bigot. He is a blacksmith or forgerman, is 65 years old and has been working at his craft for fifty years.

He is in a way an artist as well as an artisan, and received a certificate of "best worker in France" from the government a short time since for a wrought iron church door which he made.

Well-Preserved Man
A representative of the newspaper wrote:
"It was a well preserved old man, with gray hair and skin darkened by smoke, whom I saw before the red fire of a forge, beating his hammer on the anvil with all the abandon of youth. In the immense hall of a motor plane factory, full of din and black dust, Pera Bigot searched in an old pocketbook for his identification card. On it was the only photograph he ever has had taken. He explained:

"I love my craft. Do you think I will get it?"
"People had told him about the cross. He was rather skeptical. "I am 65 years old," he said. "Go see my wife."

One of Best
"Mme. Bigot was seated in a room decorated only with four photographs in uniform frames. Three were of young soldiers, with the caps of 1914, and one was of a sailor. There were also two framed diplomas—one that declares M. Bigot "one of the best workers in France" and the other a bachelor's degree of the son, who would have become a teacher, if all four sons had not died for their country.

M. Bigot worked originally in a tannery, for which he forged most of the large tubs.

To Tapestry Worker
A second cross went to an employee in the Gobelins, a state tapestry institution which has now been allowed for the first time to manufacture also for sale to private individuals. The recipient was M. Hoschied, who has been with this establishment forty-seven years.

He worked on Botticelli's "Springtime," which was presented to the queen of England; on the "Ceremony of Moliere," which is at the Theatre Francaise; on a Venus, after Jordaens, and many other famous tapestries. He still is working.

The third cross went to M. Thielmans, a trunk maker. He is 70 years old and has been for 53 years a co-operator in management and production in the Asneres factory to which he is attached.

These appointments to the legion are intended to emphasize its broad appreciation of merit and to stimulate the traditional pride of French artisans in their daily work.

Cow Gives One And Half Times Weight In Milk

HAYDEN, Colo., March 25.—A cow of the Holstein breed, owned by Whitaker and Bailey of this place, has a record of producing one and one-half times her weight in milk each month. She weighs 1200 pounds and produces 64 1-2 pounds of milk a day. These men are specializing in dairy stock.

Radio Ordinance To Be Presented

SANTA ROSA, March 25.—A radio ordinance said to be the first of its kind ever sought in California will be presented to the city council here at an early date.

This was the announcement of radio dealers who said the object of the law would be to clear the air of interference for the benefit of listeners-in by regulation of all electrical devices capable of interfering with radio reception. X-ray, violet ray and other high frequency machines as well as amateur wireless sending stations will come under the fire of the dealers.

They will ask the council for enactment of an ordinance modeled after the one now in force in Portland, Oregon, which seeks to control the operation of machines that interfere with reception, particularly between the hours of 7 and 11 p. m., when the best broadcasting stations are on the air.

Under the Portland ordinance the dealers say, high frequency machines operated in the city must be registered and a permit for their operation obtained by payment of $1 a day. Devices capable of interfering with radio reception are prohibited from operating between 7 and 11 o'clock.

Fattest Students Get Skinny Marks

NEW YORK, March 25.—Fat students get the skinny marks. A survey on physical unfitness in the colleges made by Dr. William B. F. Emerson for The Women's Home Companion reveals that obesity and poor scholarship go hand in hand. An obese student, in Dr. Emerson's report, is defined as "one whose weight, on the basis of height, is more than 20 per cent above the average."

"Proper control and training of your son who is now in high school" urges Dr. Emerson, "can soon start him on the course of health which will save him from membership in this group of corpulent deficients, at present one of the greatest debilitates in the college situation."

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Trustees of the Community Presbyterian church were last night authorized to start a quiet campaign to raise funds for a new church, it was announced today. Members of the church gathered at the church for the annual business session. A report presented at the meeting showed that the church is only $200 in debt at the present time and has the money to pay the debt. Land is already owned by the church.

Miss Anna A. Hills was re-elected superintendent of the Sunday school. N. A. Booles was elected secretary. Miss Nellie Hills, treasurer and G. W. Pryor, choir leader.

Two new trustees were elected in the church in addition to four trustees who were re-elected. The two new trustees are G. E. Thompson and Frank S. Hill. Trustees re-elected were Brayton S. Norton, Joseph S. Thurston, James B. Neel and N. A. Booles.

Two elders were elected for three-year terms. They are George K. Bingham and W. E. Van Gorder. George W. Pryor was elected for a two-year term as elder and V. Hayes and Roy M. Ropp were selected for one-year terms.

The need of a new church was shown in a report presented by the church secretary, which showed that during the past year the church membership has increased 400 per cent. Credit for the increase in membership was given to the Rev. Raymond I. Brahm, who came to Laguna Beach about two years ago.

Fullerton C. of C. Endorses 3 Bills

FULLERTON, March 25.—The directors of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce discussed three bills which are before the legislature at the present time, when the board met yesterday noon at McFarland's cafe. At the conclusion of the meeting, the board decided on support of the three bills.

The three measures are a bill to protect property owners against "loan sharks" who prey on those owing assessments for improvements, a bill pertaining to the centralized buying of school supplies through county purchasing departments instead of by individual school districts, and a bill concerning a move to change the deer hunting season from the dry season of the year when forest fires are prevalent, to later in the year when fires are not such a menace.

Santa Ana, March 25.
Dear Lois: I hope that you are more concerned with your studies than a young friend of mine. You have heard me speak of Samuel, or Sam as his schoolmates call him. The other day I was visiting his sister for dinner and I happened to overhear the following conversation:

"I think I'll go to a show to-night," Sam said to his father in all solemnity.

"I should think that a young man who has just received an unsatisfactory card in physics would not want to be going to shows on school nights," Sam's mother said in her gentlest manner.

"Yes," his father continued sternly. "Did you do as I told you and go talk to your teacher about your physics?"

Sam answered in the affirmative but seemed disinclined to continue the subject further, instead he branched off into a discussion of his latest track exploits, for he is an athlete, you know.

However, Sam's father was anxious to get to the bottom of the affair so he asked Sam what the teacher said.

"Oh, about the physics?" Sam asked. "Why, . . . he said he was sorry I hurt my foot in that race yesterday and that he hoped it would be all right soon."

The subject was closed. Sam's answer had been accepted with all of the resignation of parents who are attempting to learn things from their children.

I noticed in Tuesday's Register a story about the little daughter of the Duchess of York. How she thrived on her grandmother's care and how her grandmother, the queen of England, sent a wireless daily to the duchess telling her of

According to testimony given at a preliminary hearing, Williams obtained the keys to the "Arrow" from R. F. Belcher, Los Angeles clubman, the owner, with whom he was bargaining for the purchase of the craft.

Williams was arrested in San Diego, after he put into port when his wife became seriously ill.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

S. A. CONCERNS ENTER LAGUNA BUSINESS FIELD

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Several real estate sales have been reported here during the past few days and several new firms have announced their intention of entering the town.

The Barr Lumber company, Santa Ana, and the Raitt Dairy company, Santa Ana, are two concerns to enter this city during the past few days. The Barr Lumber company is grading property at Third street and Canyon road and will install a local branch. O. H. Barr purchased one acre here some time ago.

The Raitt Dairy company has purchased the milk business formerly operated by W. M. Hamilton and two sons, D. C. Hamilton and W. W. Hamilton, owners of the Model dairy. Hamilton and his sons will continue to operate their dairy farm but will dispose of all milk to Raitt, it is reported. The transaction was made through T. R. Trawick, according to reports.

Clifton J. Platt, well known real estate operator of Pasadena and Newport Beach, has purchased 100 feet of frontage on Forest avenue near Beach street, according to reports. The property was formerly owned by E. B. Foote. Roy W. Peacock, local realtor, concluded the sale. The consideration was not made public.

Mrs. Nettie Holcomb Pritchard, wealthy Pasadena woman, has purchased property on the coast boulevard at Arch Beach and will start construction immediately of a two-story apartment house, according to reports. The apartment will be the first for Arch Beach. The building will be constructed on the Spanish style of architecture and will cost approximately $10,000. Mrs. Pritchard recently purchased three lots in Coast Royal on the ocean front, where she will erect one of the finest beach homes in Laguna Beach. The Arch Beach property purchased by Mrs. Pritchard was formerly owned by J. Wiley Rouse and the deal was closed by the Arch Beach Realty company. Mrs. Pritchard's investments in Laguna Beach property now total more than $50,000, it is reported.

Sunday School In Westminster To Hold Picnic

WESTMINSTER, March 25.—At a meeting Monday night of teachers and officers of the Presbyterian Sunday school here a number of important changes were discussed. Since the Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Weld's arrival about three years ago the Sunday school has been partly graded and a motion was carried Monday night to thoroughly departmentalize the school. The Rev. Weld, Mrs. I. W. Bould and Mrs. Thomas Hosack were appointed to work out problems and plan for the junior department. Mrs. Weld, Mrs. Joe Walton and Hansler Larter will investigate the problems confronting the large number of children who are in primary department and plan to further divide the classes there. A cradle roll which the Sunday school does not have now was discussed. Mrs. Charles Walton, Mrs. R. E. Larter and Mrs. T. E. Turpin were appointed on a committee to arrange for a Sunday school picnic to be given during the spring vacation of the schools. Mrs. Ralph Baxter, chairman, Mrs. Harry Penhall and Mrs. I. W. Bould were chosen to select and put on a program for Easter, to be given by the Sunday school children. There was also some consideration of the matter of furnishing transportation to and from the Sunday school for people living at Barber City and Midway City. The Rev. Weld and R. E. Larter were asked to investigate the matter, as to what could be done and what the cost and report at the next teachers' meeting. There are 241 names on the Sunday school's roll.

Fullerton Girls' Benefit Tonight

FULLERTON, March 25.—A girls' league benefit entertainment will be given tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fullerton union high school auditorium. A girls' orchestra, recently organized by Fullerton high school girls by Harold E. Walberg, will furnish music for the occasion. The orchestra will be directed by Ruth Montgomery. Other musical selections will be featured as well as two one-act plays entitled, "Mr. Bob" and "In the Spring". The entire proceeds from the entertainment will go to the league's scholarship fund.

Water Placed In Laguna Beach Mains

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Water was turned into the new $600,000 water system at Laguna Beach last night for the first time. It was announced today. Officials of the J. E. Lippincott company, which was in charge of the installation of the system, were present.

Approximately two days will be needed to flush the huge system. The water system is one of the finest in Southern California. Water is brought to Laguna Beach from the Santa Ana river basin through a 30-inch main more than 10 miles in length.

CALL $124,500 LAGUNA SCHOOL BOND ELECTION

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—A bond election to raise $124,500 for the erection of a new grammar school building, is to be called here within the next month, it was reported today.

More than 90 voters who gathered at a mass meeting this week unanimously expressed their approval of the new grammar school proposition. The mass meeting was called by the school trustees.

Plans for the building have been prepared by Ray Spangler, Santa Ana architect. The proposed structure will be of Spanish design and will contain eight rooms and a large auditorium.

According to plans outlined by the school board, the present school building will be moved and the building erected on the site of the present school. The eight lots will be used as space for further additions to the school and as a playground.

Little doubt is held regarding the success of the proposed bond issue as not one opposing voice was heard at the meeting.

La Habra Church Members Guests

LA HABRA, March 25.—Societies of the Methodist church met yesterday afternoon at the beautiful new home of Mrs. Sarah Wilber on South Sympson street. The guests were shown through the rooms and then proceeded with their business meeting, at which plans were laid for the birthday luncheon April 23 in the Epworth league room of the church.

Invitations will be extended to women of the church who are not members of the societies to be guests. Tables will be arranged for each month of the year and the guests will be seated according to their birthdays. The occasion will be the birthday anniversary of the societies.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Flora Little, a charter member of La Habra's first missionary society, presented Mrs. Wilber with a gift in behalf of the organization for her garden in memory of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Varney, who passed away a few years ago in La Habra after having spent several years in the Orient.

A luncheon was served in the late afternoon by the hostesses to the following: Mrs. Milton Keeler, Mrs. Charles Varney, Mrs. H. A. Randall, Mrs. Allen Parson, Mrs. Robert Carey, Mrs. Flora Little, Mrs. L. E. Partridge, Mrs. Jack Carrick, Mrs. W. E. Malan, Mrs. W. L. York, Mrs. J. L. Morris, Mrs. Sarah Barber, Mrs. Henri Clayton and daughter, Doris, and Mrs. Wilber.

Newspaperman Is Laguna Speaker

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—K. P. Frederick, suburban editor of a Long Beach newspaper, last night addressed members of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce at an informal social meeting of the organization at the Tea and Tiffin cafe here. H. H. Henshaw presided at the meeting. Henshaw was chairman of the entertainment committee. Frank D. Champion, president of the local chamber of commerce, spoke.

Other speakers included George E. Dunham sr., secretary of the chamber of commerce; Mrs. J. S. Thurston, president of the local Woman's club; and Vernon Hunt, local attorney. Miss Marjorie Gowan gave several readings. A chicken dinner was served.

PLAN LAGUNA BEACH STREET IMPROVEMENT

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Improvement of Forest avenue by widening, paving and the installation of ornamental street lights, will be taken up at a special meeting here Monday night. Property owners on the street have signified their willingness to widen the street from 60 feet to 70 feet, according to reports.

It is expected that an organization known as the Forest Avenue Improvement association will be formed Monday night. The association will have as its aim the remodeling and modernizing of all business buildings on Forest avenue.

The street runs from the Laguna Beach Lumber company's site to the coast highway and is one of the main business arteries of the town.

Little trouble is expected in securing the co-operation of all property owners in either remodeling the fronts of the present business structures or in building new business structures. It is the intention of the association to make Laguna Beach the most beautiful city in Southern California.

WORK STARTS ON BREA STRUCTURE

BREA, March 25.—Material is on the ground and work is going forward on the new Dewey-Fredrickson building, 50 by 90 feet, on the lot immediately south of the Braasch building on South Pomona. This building, the second owned by this firm in Brea, is to be of Class A construction, with hardwood floors, special tile front, brick rear and side walls. Contracts, which have been let to Mr. Newman, of Pomona, call for the completion of the building by June 1. Isaac Craig, local contractor and builder, is to oversee the work for Newman. The lot on which the building is being erected was purchased from the city and was formerly occupied by the city fire department building and equipment, which has been removed to city property on West Date street.

Crowd Present At School Play

ANAHEIM, March 25.—Anaheim music lovers and patrons of the Anaheim union high school were treated last night to one of the most colorful and entertaining amateur performances ever staged here, the three-act opera, "In The Garden of the Shah," presented in the school auditorium by the combined boys' and girls' glee clubs of the school under the direction of Miss Mabel Sharp and Joshua Williams, musical instructors in the school.

A good sized first night audience greeted the 75 student performers included in the cast of the opera. Kenneth Hall and Alice Ashley, carrying the male and female leads, respectively, captured the major share of honors with their solo and duet numbers.

The production is to be repeated tonight and proceeds from both performances are to be turned over to the school scholarship fund, which is used to aid deserving graduates to continue their higher educational work.

Newport Movie Shows High Waves

NEWPORT BEACH, March 24.—The local reel, given by Stuffer brothers and shown at the Community church, Tuesday, showed what the ocean did to the board walk recently, with snaps of some of the Newport residents who were out watching it.

An interesting feature of this week's program were the violin selections played by Master Patrick Jordan, accompanied by Mrs. Greshams, of Costa Mesa. This young lad, who has been taking lessons less than a year, is quite a clever player and is thoroughly at ease before an audience.

Gradually the pastor of the church, the Rev. Mr. Stockton, is gathering a Sunday school orchestra. Anyone young or old, who plays any instrument and is interested in joining such an organization, is invited to confer with the pastor.

OIL DRILLER HOME AFTER LONG JAUNT

ANAHEIM, March 25.—Carrying six passengers in a five-passenger car, a serious offense in Venezuela, is often carrying with it a term in the native "hoosegow," especially if the offender is a white man, says M. C. Nevin, globe trotting oil driller, who is now resting at his home, 815 South Philadelphia street this city, after nearly two years spent in the South American country.

Nevin cited his knowledge of Venezuelan traffic law methods from an experience during his sojourn there when one night he had the misfortune to be one of a party of six riding in a five-passenger car. He didn't have to go to jail but the driver of the car did and was fined $40 in American money as well, Nevin said.

Nevin returned to Anaheim little more than a week ago after spending 22 months in various parts of the South American country, "wildcatting" for the Shell Oil company.

During the 27 years of his experience in the oil game he has drilled in fields in far flung parts of the globe. After some years in the California fields, he spent long periods of time in the oil sections of Western Alberta, Canada, the Philippines, China, Japan and India, in addition to his recent South American experience. While he is now enjoying a brief vacation with his family here, he says he can feel the wanderlust spirit creeping over him again and his next jump may be to Egypt.

Nevin's first experience in Venezuela, a project in the wild jungle country near the border line between Venezuela and Colombia, was a thrilling one in the extreme, owing to the frank hostility of the natives, who resent the encroachments of the white man.

Disarmed by the government, Mr. Nevin and his two white companions were forced to rely entirely upon their wits and nerve in protecting themselves and the oil derricks from the attacks of the natives. Stories of white men being slashed to death by a long, cruel knife through the dense jungle were common and added little to the self-composure of the oil men.

An oil found in Venezuela is of an unusually fine grade, averaging between 20 and 45 degrees of specific gravity and 7000-barrel wells at a depth of 1600 feet are common, he said.

Just Relapse, Verdict In Case Of J. G. Measles

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 25.—J. G. Measles, 32, of this city, has had a "relapse," according to local police.

Early this week Measles was arrested on a charge of being intoxicated. He pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a $50 fine, court records show.

Yesterday, Measles suffered a "relapse," police state. He was arrested on a charge of possession of liquor. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and asked for a jury trial.

City Recorder C. W. Warner set the trial for April 14, and set Measles' bail at $300. Measles was unable to make bail and was placed in the Orange county jail pending his trial.

Beach Policeman Arranges New Games for Pupils Of Newport School

NEWPORT BEACH, March 25.—The old cry of "Jigger, here comes the cop," is heard no more in Newport Beach.

Virgil Swartz, policeman, has captured the confidence and respect of the children.

Swartz is the "guardian angel" who hovers over the grammar school children during recess periods and at playtimes, and the youngsters are all for him.

Swartz plays games with the children. He has drilled into the children the habit of looking both ways on the street before they dash out to retrieve a ball. He has formed safety committees to prevent accidents on the school ground and is one of the most popular persons on the school ground.

The genial officer's popularity is enhanced by his ability to teach the school boys new and better methods of playing various games. Swartz is the first person the children seek when they dash onto the school ground to play and they always have a parting word for him when they return to classes. When children see him on the street they will run a block to say "hello."

PASTOR REBEKAH, I. O. O. F. SPEAKER

WESTMINSTER, March 25.—An entertainment of unusual merit was given Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows hall, when the members put on a program for the members of the local Rebekah lodge. Rather, they had the arranging of the program in their hands, for most of the talent was from other towns.

After the lodge session was formally opened, a recess was called and the program announced. The Rev. R. A. Weld, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, was present and addressed the lodge members and their friends on "Fraternalism," referring to the early days when men united in clanship. Two delightful numbers were next heard from the Boys' Glee club of the Huntington Beach high school. Mr. Gonzales, of Los Angeles, accompanied by Mrs. Marie Hare, played a violin solo. Then, the Cosmopolitan four, Will Phillips, Hadley Pryor, Will Galliene, of Huntington Beach, and Mr. Busley, of Ontario, sang. Ruth Melvin sang "Sunrise and You" and "The Little Forget-me-not." Prof. Brooks, from Huntington Beach high school was heard in a comic sketch on his banjo. Then, closing the program, Mr. Gieselman, with his two sons and daughter, won the admiration of the audience by playing a number of different instruments, the drum, piano, saxophone and singing. They are all Bellfellow.

After the program guests and members, about 150 in all, enjoyed supper in the hall below, at tables prettily decorated in marigolds.

Returning to the lodge room where the regular business was taken care of, Florence Crawford, district deputy president, of Santa Ana, made her official visit. She gave a short talk and was presented with a set of cut glass sherbet dishes and a lovely basket of sweet peas, the latter from Mrs. Charles Parr, noble grand.

Mrs. George Whitcomb and Mrs. Robert Falck were elected delegates for the Rebekah assembly to be held in Sacramento in May. Guests were present from Santa Ana and Huntington Beach.

Beach Officers Play "Joke" On Practical Joker

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 25.—A Polson, of this city, was not successful when he tried to play a joke on local police.

Polson was lodged in the Orange county jail today because he was unable to raise $200 bail. He is charged with being intoxicated. His trial will be held April 7 before City Recorder C. W. Warner. Polson pleaded not guilty to the charge.

According to reports, Polson called the police station Wednesday night and asked for an officer. He told police that he was at 1814 Fourteenth street, it is reported. As Fourteenth street in this city is only a few blocks long officers checked on the call and located the correct address.

While one officer kept Polson engaged at the telephone other officers traced the call and arrested Polson.

OIL COMPANIES TO BE WATCHED BY GAME OFFICE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 25.—The state fish and game commissioner will have a deputy in this city in the future, it was announced this week. The deputy will keep a watchful eye on oil companies in the local oil field with a view to keeping oil off the streets and out of the ocean.

The establishment of a fish and game officer here is the direct result of the death of several thousand fish at the Bolsa Chica gun club a few months ago, it is believed. The fish in the lagoons near the gun club died suddenly. An investigation followed and it was determined that oil on the water was responsible for the death of the fish.

E. A. Chan is to be the local representative of the fish and game commission, it is reported. Chan will conduct a survey of the oil field so that he will know from what wells oil comes, if any is found on the streets, it is reported. Reports indicate that the fish and game commissioner will prosecute any oil concern which allows oil to flow on the streets.

The oil, after reaching the streets, runs down the drains into the ocean and kills hundreds of fish. Chan intends to prevent the death of any more fish, according to reports.

Laguna Telephone Manager Resigns

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Mrs. George S. McCue, local manager of the telephone exchange, has resigned her position and will leave early in April with her mother, Mrs. M. C. Boyer, for Oakland, where she will join her husband, Col. G. S. McCue, it was reported today. Mrs. McCue has been affiliated with the local telephone exchange for several years.

LAGUNA BEACH GAS SERVICE TO BEGIN SATURDAY

LAGUNA BEACH, March 25.—Gas service will start in this city tomorrow, it was announced today by C. E. Rutledge, district manager of the Southern Counties Gas company. "Finny" Finnegan, who will act as city foreman for the gas company, will turn on the gas. Laterals have been laid in the business district, on the cliffs and at Arch Beach but connections have not been made. Laterals and connections have been completed in McKnight's addition, west of town, and it is here that the first gas will be used.

Gas is brought to this city through a six-inch main from Balboa island. The line and laterals installed by the Southern Counties Gas company represent an expenditure of more than $160,000, according to reports. It is estimated that gas connections will be made in the business district within the next 10 days.

Although there are few consumers in the Laguna Beach territory at the present time, the gas company estimated that within the next 10 years it will have more than 25,000 consumers along the coast.

The label that distinguishes Cudahy's Puritan Ham

Finer flavor is a distinguishing quality of Cudahy's Puritan Ham. The label is your positive assurance of this quality in every ham which bears it. Puritan has a mild, sweet, delicious flavor and a decided tenderness that can be enjoyed only in this fine ham. That is because the choice, young meats selected for Puritan are "ripened naturally"—a special Cudahy method of curing. This exacting method diffuses the rich juices of the meats slowly and in a natural way, producing a result similar to fruit tree-ripened as compared to fruit artificially ripened. Puritan is so easy to prepare because it requires no parboiling. It is nutritious, easily digested and is rich in the elements necessary for muscle and tissue building. You, too, will be delighted with this fine ham. So look for the label when you buy. ## Southern California Gardens

By RUSSELL S. ADKINSON

Spring Garden Culture

Owing to heavy and continued rains, together with cloudy cool weather, a number of gardens have become heavily infested with weeds and the soil severely packed. It is with pleasure that we greet a few warm drying days as it eases the garden work, and lends vigor to our plants.

Having devoted last week's article to a synopsis of present planting, I shall attempt this week to be of some value to those seeking information in regard to care of the garden during spring and summer.

Just recently it did not appear as though we would ever need to water again with all the abundance of rain. Nor did it seem as though cultivation would ever be possible. We must ever be on constant guard against letting the soil pass the ideal condition for cultivation. Even worse is it to allow it to go from this stage on into one of urgent need of water, as it is then that great difficulty will be met with, in again bringing our soil back to a loamy condition.

Weeds

Provided you have not already eradicated the weeds, do so at once as every soil should be sufficiently dry now to work without injury to it. Every day they remain is that much of a drain on the soil. Where it is possible to spade or plow them under, so much the better, as they offer a splendid means of adding humus to the soil. If it is not practical pull or hoe them and take them away from the garden. A splendid soil can be made by stacking weeds and soil in layers in some out of the way spot in the garden, and keeping it moist in order to rot the weeds. This forms what is termed compost, and it is excellent for potting plants and also for seed beds. The process usually extends from one to two years for ideal results.

In eradicating weeds in beds of small plants, greatest of care should be exercised to prevent plant injury. Often a weed will be rooted so close that the use of a knife is advisable to prevent uprooting or shocking the little plants. Some very useful tools for weeding are displayed at hardware and seed stores.

Cultivation

Proper cultivation is almost as essential as irrigation, and if begun real early in the season, it will be easier throughout the year. Heavy rains have a tendency to pack some soils and leave them too wet to cultivate for some time and then all at once they become hard and crusted over the surface. If you can prevent this from occurring by cultivating just as soon as the soil is at all dried, and not too sticky, you will find that a much better mulch can be maintained. Should all, or a portion of the garden become too hard and dry before you get to it, sprinkle it good before attempting to cultivate.

Irrigation

The necessity of irrigation comes sooner than we anticipate for prevailing warm days influence vigorous root growth and in this way moisture is rapidly drawn from the soil by the air and plant roots. The crusting of soil, spoken of in the above paragraph may occur in small plant beds and as their root systems are very limited it can readily be seen that additional moisture will be needed.

Wherever possible open a trench and run a slow stream through it. This gives the soil a very good soaking. When this method is employed, be sure and follow with a cultivation at the proper time.

In some cases, sprinkling is almost necessary. The possibility of injury such as mildew and blight is so great in numerous cases that sprinkling should be avoided if possible. It only takes a short time with a hose and nozzle to have the surface saturated and to all outward appearances the watering has been well done. Give that soil one day of good sunshine and you can hardly tell that it has been watered.

Over Watering

It may seem absurd to say that considerable injury to plants occurs each year from excessive watering. Such is the case, however, in some of the heavier soils. This is especially true in shaded locations. Some plants are especially subject to such injury, and when they begin to show signs of suffering the general tendency is to apply more water. A thorough examination of the soil is advisable in case a plant is not doing well.

In order to be sure your garden is receiving proper care, it is advisable to begin now making regular and thorough trips of inspection.

If you can maintain a soil condition that is moist and loose and not sticky and wet, nor hard and dry, you should be assured of good results.

Woman Who Died From Starvation Had $300 Hidden

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 25.—More than $300 was found in the room where Miss Maggie Roeder, 60 years old, of a wealthy Bellaire, O., family, was found dead of starvation here March 4. The money was discovered hidden under a rug. Miss Roeder left home 25 years ago, following a family quarrel, and had refused to communicate with relatives.

The postmaster general has sanctioned a private company undertaking the scheme.

DR. WORK TELLS CLUB NEED FOR COLORADO DAM

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The United States has learned by experience the dangers of permitting the nation's natural resources to be exploited, and has fortified itself against further monopolistic aggrandizement, Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work said here today in an address before the Commonwealth Club of California. The secretary, during the course of his address, urged governmental development of the Colorado river project.

"We cannot speak of natural resources today unless we refer to their conservation also," the secretary said. "The period of exploitation of these resources has passed, so far as the government is concerned. The public land grabs of the last century are a soiled page in our history, but the remaining public domain is protected for future generations.

Restrictive Legislation
"The tendency of the government at this time is toward restrictive legislation to prevent monopolies in utilization of our natural resources."

Characterizing the Colorado river as one of the greatest undeveloped resources in the United States the secretary said:

"The Colorado river project will contribute to human welfare and create new wealth throughout the Colorado basin and tributary country. While I am opposed to government ownership or operation of any public utility that is within the compass of private citizens, I have for two years been urging upon congress that the federal government without further delay aid in the development of this mighty resource."

"No individual or corporation could deal with so many totally different purposes as those involved in the Colorado river project and at the same time safeguard the various interests concerned. The problem is local, interstate and international, and our people as a whole are entitled to every protection the government can lend them in holding this mighty but limited natural gift for their own intelligent use.

Speaking of federal reclamation, Work said the government has reclaimed 1,850,000 acres from the desert since it started in the reclamation business 25 years ago.

West Develops Rapidly
"The crops raised on federal projects last year were valued at $60,000,000," Work said, "but this contribution cannot be measured in dollars. Its chief value is its share in the conservation program necessary to protect succeeding generations. It is estimated that within the next century the population of the United States will have increased to 300,000,000. A large portion of this multitude will find homes in the west."

The government, the secretary said, is particularly vigilant and looking ahead in preserving what now appears to be worthless minerals which may become valuable through scientific discovery. He cited radium, discovered in western Colorado, magnesite a valuable refractory material discovered in Washington as examples.

"The gigantic conception of the Columbia basin irrigation project in the northwest will be a development that compels our interest and challenges the imagination," he said, "and in itself promises to become an empire."

FIVE ARE ARRESTED; BOOZE CONFISCATED

FRESNO, March 25.—Five men were arrested and approximately 175 gallons of liquor were confiscated when federal, county and city officers made a surprise attack on a bootleg plant in Hewitt valley, Madera county, yesterday.

Details of the raid were announced here by W. C. Rhodes, sheriff of Madera county, who, with deputy sheriffs of Fresno county, federal agents and the purty squad of the Fresno police department, made the arrests.

Those under arrest were taken to Madera, where they will be charged with conspiracy to violate liquor laws and possession of liquor, Rhodes said. They are Noah Chapman, former police officer, of Fresno; C. W. Westrup, constable of the fifth township in Madera county; Lee Ricci, Fresno; Louie Ricci, Fresno, and Abe Brealt, Fresno.

The men were armed but did not have an opportunity to use their guns, Rhodes said.

JAZZ AT WEDDINGS EXEMPT FROM TAX

BERLIN, March 25.—Reverence for the institution of marriage, which is being fostered by every means in the government's power because of the falling birth rate, has again been shown by the Berlin board of aldermen.

It has approved an ordinance exempting jazz and orchestral music at wedding celebrations from the municipal entertainment tax.

The exemption applies not only to marriage feasts, which are elaborately celebrated, but to the twenty-fifth, fiftieth, sixtieth and seventy-fifth wedding anniversary feasts.

The aldermen, however, refused to reduce the tax on prize fights from 30 per cent to 25 per cent of the gate receipts.

Heavy Taxation Will Break Up Large Estates

SYDNEY, March 25.—The New South Wales government is determined to break up large estates in favor of closer settlement, and will introduce a bill for the promotion of agricultural settlement. The bill imposes a graduated tax ranging from 2 1-2d. to 6d. in the pound upon estates of over 10,000 pounds unimproved capital value. The tax applies to all the big squatters' stations irrespective of their location, the only exceptions being stud sheep stations and grazing land. It will be the duty of a closer settlement advisory board to define grazing land. The tax will not come into force for a year, as it will take some time to obtain returns and carry out other preliminary work.

Small Boys Are Not So Small as Fifty Years Ago

CHICAGO, March 25.—The average American boy today is three and one-tenth inches taller than he was 50 years ago, but for no particular reason, so far as Dr. Horace Gray, of Chicago, can find out. Among probable causes for the increased stature, Dr. Gray suggested increased knowledge of vitamins and scientific strides in the effect. More comfortable economic conditions enjoyed in the present age, he said, also probably play an important part.

Lighthouse Has Shape of Buddha

TOKIO, March 25.—A lighthouse donated to the port of Nagoya, to be dedicated in May, is in the unusual shape of a huge Buddha, cast in concrete. The Buddha is in the conventional form, along the lines of the famous bronze Buddha at Kamakura, but larger. The immense concrete statue is 72 feet high and 52 feet in girth, in its forehead, where the ordinary Buddha has a jewel, there being set a 10,000 candlepower electric light, shining out over the harbor.

PREDICTS SUCCESS FOR BOULDER BILL

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The Boulder canyon dam bill will pass the lower house of congress at the next session, Congressman Charles F. Curry, of California, predicts.

The congressman returned to San Francisco aboard the transport Chateau Thierry, which experienced an outbreak of influenza en route.

"There is strong support for the Boulder dam bill in congress and, as far as the lower house is concerned, I feel safe in predicting that it will pass at the next session," Curry told the United Press.

Professor Claims Negroes Vanishing

NEW YORK, March 25.—Dr. Frank H. Haskins, professor of sociology at Smith college, predicted in a speech before the conference on immigration policy that the Negro race would disappear from the United States within 200 years. Climatic conditions and the pressure of industrial competition, Dr. Haskins said, were the principal causes in the process of extinction.

DE MOLAY BOYS ORGANIZE NEW 'FRAT' CHAPTER

College students, members of the Santa Ana chapter, Order of DeMolay, were today completing the organization of a Shriners' order of the DeMolay fraternity, it was revealed by Julius Yale, who is the head of the new chapter. The new fraternity is known as the Delta Mu, the Greek letters for DeMolay.

If the claims of the charter members are fulfilled, the Santa Ana order will be the mother chapter of a string of similar fraternities across the United States.

Sponsored by Masons

Twelve charter members have been admitted by an advisory council consisting of Master Masons. The Delta Mu is to be under the supervision of the Masons in a manner similar to that exercised over the DeMolay chapter. The advisory Masons are J. F. Williams, T. B. Kelly, Lloyd Roach, Fred Merker, Walter Kaufmann and C. E. Walker.

The organization of the Delta Mu order has been under progress for some time, it was revealed. Officers have been elected and now articles of association are being drawn up for the members by Carl Cowles, Santa Ana lawyer. A ritual and obligation is being written for the order by Lloyd Roach.

Julius Yale, organizer of the new chapter, was elected president by the members. The other officers are Chester Page, first vice president; John Casey, second vice president; Russ Hooker, secretary-treasurer, Alfred Ault and Herbert Smith, ritual officers.

The chapter roll also includes Gerald Edwards, Richard Ewert, George Haddon, Clyde Walker, Alfred Fessman and Orest Cianfoni.

Order of College Men

The purpose of the order, it was explained, is to provide fraternal association for the college DeMolay members. In the induction of candidates and the performance of ritual work, much that is new to DeMolay ceremonies is to be introduced, according to Yale.

Weekly meetings on Monday nights are being held by the order.

Last Tuesday afternoon, the college men met and decided to have the articles of association drawn up. Other business details were passed upon. The pledging of several of the college students in Santa Ana junior college was discussed. The qualifications for admission to the chapter is that the candidate be a member of a DeMolay chapter and that he have been enrolled in college.

Let us learn more about BIRDS

THE FARMERS, fruit growers and foresters of this country know too little about birds. City folks know even less, but their loss is just as tangible and real as the farmers' financial loss. All should know more about our birds and their great worth in stimulating our finer emotions—also their economic value.

Insect pests cause an annual loss of $200,000,000 to the cereal crop of this country, according to the statistics of the agricultural department. They cost cotton growers an average of $60,000,000 a year and timber interests $100,000,000. The total annual loss of farms and forest products of all kinds is estimated at $520,000,000. That is a sum which should command attention.

That vast loss can be largely avoided. Here is where the birds come in, or would come in if farmers and others appreciated them properly and gave them a chance. Each individual insectivorous bird will consume, at a conservative estimate, 100 of these destroying insects a day. Investigation in Massachusetts has placed the average of insectivorous birds at five to the acre. Thus the state's 8,000 square miles has a useful bird population of not less than 56,000,000. The daily fare should require 2,560,000,000 insects, or 21,000 bushels of destructive pests. Birds should be conserved and attracted by more rigid protective laws, by closer study and effort at conservation.

Birds are the friends of everybody, and every girl and boy especially is interested in birds and their habits. What a fine education it would be to collect pictures of the birds, all in their natural colors.

Well, here is an opportunity for you to get those pictures. Every day you may find a picture of a bird—a different one—wrapped in every loaf of Kilpatrick's bread. There will be 48 of them, and when you have the complete series, you may take them to your grocer and he will get an album for you containing the pictures of all the birds with a description of their habits and the like.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Jesus: Friend, Sight-Giver, Shepherd

SYNOPSIS ARRANGED BY
DR. WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
SKETCHES BY KROESSEN

Jesus goes to the home of Martha and Mary at Bethany. Martha, "cumbered about much serving," complained to Jesus about Mary not helping, but Jesus said, "One thing is needful, and Mary hath chosen that good part." (Luke X: 38-42)

Jesus saw a man born blind, and controversy arose concerning sin, affliction, and his wonder-working power. (John IX: 1-41)

Jesus put wet clay on the blind man's eyes and told him to wash in the pool of Siloam. His sight was restored. (John IX: 6-7)

Speaking to his disciples Jesus told them the Parable of the Shepherd, saying, "I am the good shepherd and know my sheep and am known of mine." (John X: 1-16)

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

In half an hour, when old King Cole had finished with his pipe and bowl, he chatted with the Tinymites, and said, "You'll like it here. I'm glad such fine friends I have found. Why don't you Tinymites around. The place is quite beautiful, and there is naught to fear."

"Oh, can we do that?" Copy said. The king replied, "Go right ahead. I'll even send a guard along to show you this and that." And so a nice guard started out to show the Tinymites all about. They laughed at how the guard was dressed, and at his funny hat.

His shoes had long and pointed toes and where he got them, goodness knows. His blouse had all the colors that you've ever heard about. His pantaloons puffed in the breeze and hung away above his knees. The Tinymites watched his antics then with laughter they would shout.

Each room they'd enter seemed more grand. The Tinymites couldn't understand how just one king could use the things that filled the palace great. With golden chairs and other things, enough for many, many kings, they found that he had put his home in quite a wondrous state. They went from bottom to the top and then, of course, they'd stop and peek out through the windows at the scenery down below. Then Copy said, "Ah, there's a treat. I think I hear some music sweet. It comes from where the king is. That's the place where we should go."

So, back they went and found the king. They wondered if he'd start to sing, for round him stood three little men, as cheerful as could be. "Oh, I know them," wee Clowey said. "Of them we all have often read. When King Cole wants some music he just calls his fiddlers, three."

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES
ELBOWS

If possible, rub a little flesh-building cream into your elbows at night. Let it stay on your skin as long as you can, then wipe it off with a face cloth or a dry towel. If you wipe it off thoroughly there will not be enough oil left on the surface of the skin to stain the bed covering; at the same time the skin will have absorbed enough so that the elbows will look smooth and attractive next day. If you neglect this and the elbows look badly, rub them with some good, quick-drying milky hand lotion, and when this has dried in well cover them quickly with powder. Not all hand lotions are good for the elbows, whatever is used should be oily, because the skin dries out here more rapidly than on any other part of the body and gets rough and dirty looking.

The favorite hand lotion—equal parts of glycerine, rose water and lemon or cucumber juice—is not much good for elbows. You almost must have oil. The honey-almond lotion is good, for it contains oil of sweet almonds, which the skin takes up rapidly and which softens and nourishes it. You can use plain lard if you want; that is a light grease which the skin takes up readily, it is cleansing and it is nourishing.

A good treatment, for permanent as well as temporary improvement, is to rub the elbows well with cleansing cream, working this into the pores. Wash off with soap and water, and dry the skin. Rub vanishing cream into the skin, and when it dries use a lot of powder. Or, if you are in a great hurry and must make your elbows look nice at once, rub them with honey-almond lotion, or any milky emulsion which you may use on your hands. Wipe this off with a towel, it removes the dirt and leaves the skin soft for powdering.

Rub the elbows with cream every night

Betty S.—You do not have to reduce your arms and legs for your body will soon grow up to be in proportion to your limbs. Most children grow this way and their legs and arms attain adult size long before the rest of their bodies.

L. K. K.—You may be training hair into the waves you make with the hot iron and losing the waves that were natural. Certain atmospheric conditions make temporary changes in the hair, such as very dry air or overheated houses which will cause naturally curly hair to straighten for a time.

COTTON COSTUME

In these silk and satin days an all-cotton costume comes as a breath of years ago. Here it is! Worn by Mrs. Thomas C. Hunt, it won the grand prize at the King Cotton Ball at Greensboro, N. C. Of white embroidered net is the dress; the coat and hat are of organdy.

something. Woodrow Wilson stood for high ideals and vision. Mr. Coolidge stands on the rock of safety and conservatism. From it he budges not an inch. It has won him many friends—it has won him many enemies. The country is a seething surge of factions and he may not take sides. With him it is country first.

Is the wistfulness in his eyes not loneliness of office but loneliness of soul?

COOLIDGE IS
HIS SOUL

By Olive Roberts Barton
I do not know what kind of a person we expect to see when the President of the United States walks into a room. We know what he looks like—we have seen his picture thousands of times—but it is peculiar that each one of the three times that I have met him I have had a singular feeling of surprise. "Why, he's just a man like every other man," remarked a gentleman with an amused smile when I confided this vague but no less positive impression to him.

One finds a gentleman of something under six feet tall with a quiet wistful smile, very smooth reddish hair, and blue gray eyes that are the most modest eyes I have ever seen—and friendly.

"A man like every other man?" His eyes seem to say, no they seem to sigh, "I am lonely. I want to step out of my shell of glamour and be one of the boys. I can't break through and come to you, but won't you please come to me!" (The President is permitted to accept very few social invitations; a ball for a public benevolence, for instance, and dinners given by members of the cabinet.)

I am not electioneering nor lobbying. What I am saying concerns only a man—and a lonely man. I am positive.

We live in a complex time—an age of cross purposes in which a thousand things are diametrically opposed. What we may call wrong today, we may insist is right tomorrow, and vice versa. It is not less complex than vacillating, this age of ours. Do we know what we want? Aren't we likely to agree with the last convincing magazine article we have read? And change our minds two days later? Are we really informed enough to know?

The thing that strikes you as you gaze at the statue of Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial is the brooding loneliness in the eyes. A wistful, lonely spirit that knows not companionship. His was not loneliness of office, but loneliness of soul. A rock in the seething surge of events around him. Our presidents all stand for

CLEAR WAY FOR FIREMEN

Probably residents of Santa Ana are no more prone to run to fires than are the residents of other cities the size of Santa Ana, but it seems to our firemen that Santa Ana has more than its share of difficulties at fires.

Frequently, streets are so filled with sight-seers' automobiles that the firemen have difficulty in getting the trucks about. Within the last week, arriving at a fire for which an alarm was not sent in until the fire was well under way, firemen found the streets around the fire blocked.

The remedy lies either in severe prosecutions, which the firemen naturally dislike, or in a system whereby police headquarters can send police to every fire so that areas can be roped off and offenders prosecuted by the police department.

Fire protection is an important item in Santa Ana's civic life. We have been fortunate always in our freedom from big fires. If we remain fortunate, we must depend not on mere good luck but upon diligence in reducing fire hazards, diligence in improving fire fighting personnel and equipment, diligence in providing ample water and water mains, diligence in seeing to it that firemen are given every opportunity at fires of doing their work to the very best advantage. This kind of diligence is a matter of co-operation between the fire department and the residents of the city.

LOOK THEM OVER

Now that all the candidates are announced, look them over. Give them not merely "the once over" but study them carefully. Try to meet them personally or talk with people who do know them personally. Study their records in public life and private business and in their social and civic relations.

The men who shall be elected at the coming city election will mean a good deal in your life during the next four years—yes, and for many another four years, for during the next four years things will be done in Santa Ana and by Santa Ana and possibly to Santa Ana that will affect its destiny for all future time.

No good, conscientious self-respecting citizen will feel justified in passing up the coming city election as a matter of little or no concern to him, or in regarding it as an opportunity for him to indulge in a purely personal preference or private prejudice at public expense. No citizen has the right, either legal or moral, to participate in any election on any such basis. Even if he could afford to do so, as a personal matter, he certainly has not the right to do so as a community unit.

We respectfully urge every man and woman in Santa Ana who is entitled to vote in the coming election, both for their own sakes and for the sakes of their fellow citizens, to give careful thought and thorough investigation to the various candidacies that have presented themselves.

THE SMOKE PLAGUE

The Institution of Fuel Technology in London has been learning some unpleasant facts about English atmosphere. Two and a half million tons of soot are distributed over England every year. One-fifth of that is tar and the other large part is sulphuric acid, both brought down by the rain, poisoning the soil and helping to destroy buildings. A considerable portion of sooty matter stays in the air, particularly in London and other cities. There it darkens the day, gets into human lungs and does other material damage. It is said that on an ordinary winter day in London every cubic centimeter of air contains 2000 to 3000 soot particles. On a day of dense smoke haze the soot particles increase to 50,000 or 100,000.

The proper use of fuel would eliminate a great deal of this plague of soot. But before we make any uncomplimentary remarks about England's long indifference to the possibilities of smoke elimination, we should consider some of our own industrial cities. With modern scientific smoke-consuming appliances at hand, with knowledge of cleaner fuels and of cleaner ways to use the dirt-making fuels, many cities let the smoke menace grow apace, blackening their fine buildings, choking trees and grass, injuring human health, causing expensive damage to fabrics.

BETTER BRITISH FILMS

Aroused by the attempt to get a bill through Parliament requiring English movie theaters to exhibit a certain amount of British film on every program in order to reduce the proportion of American pictures, a group of English capitalists and literary men have decided to take some constructive measures that are less paternalistic.

These men have organized a concern for the production of British films of high quality. They have taken over one of the great buildings of the Wembley exposition to use as a studio. Such men as John Galsworthy, Hall Caine, Arnold Bennett and Conan Doyle are enlisted to write the scenarios. Undoubtedly they are going into this business, undoubtedly, so that a good director and up-to-date equipment may be taken for granted.

It is an interesting undertaking and one to which American movie fans ought to wish all success. A little serious foreign competition in good moving pictures won't hurt the industry in this country at all and ought to benefit the picture-viewing public by improving the literary and dramatic quality of films.

A BEQUEST FOR PURE ENGLISH

A Massachusetts proof reader who willed $500 apiece to the town in which he was born and the town in which he worked at his profession, for the purchase of books, not exclusive of fiction, by authors distinguished for their use of pure English, recognized a great need in the matter of current use of English either in writing or speaking.

But will his bequest accomplish much good? If either of the towns has a public library it must already contain some works of literature distinguished for pure English. Unfortunately you can give a community a library but you can't make the citizens reads the books or, having read them, immediately give up slang and bad grammar.

These particular books, however, may help somewhat. If their donor believed that a little leaven eventually leavens the whole lump, he would probably be satisfied if the books were well chosen and read by a few citizens every year.

PRIVATE ARMAMENT

"The carrying of side arms," says a state prison report, "was the privilege of a gentleman for thousands of years, and it continued down to our time, on the frontier. Old practices die hard, and the wearing of weapons, concealed, continues to be a vexatious problem. The appearance of the gunman and street robber made the problem acute."

Congress recently, after much prodding, enacted a law forbidding the shipment of firearms by mail. Several of our states are regulating the distribution of pistols and revolvers. But we still have far to go in this direction before making the country safe for sane and honest citizens.

Canada may take far more drastic action, though it has no crime wave like ours. A measure submitted to the Canadian Parliament recently would regulate the sale and possession of all kinds of small weapons, including knives and slingshots.

There is some dispute as to when winter is over. Probably when the income tax report is filled out.

Honor Men of Science

Pasadena Star-News
Honors to the memory of Sir Isaac Newton, greatest of natural philosophers, were paid by scientists throughout the British Empire on the two-hundredth anniversary of the death of the eminent scientist. As an example of the potential importance of things seemingly trivial the fact often is cited that Isaac Newton, noting the fall of an apple in his garden, began the studies which resulted in his greatest discovery—the law of gravitation.

It is to the credit of Britons that they thus commemorate one of their greatest scientists and philosophers. This is a practice that would do credit to any nation and people—to memorialize great scientific centuries after their passing from earth. America has had many scientists and inventors whose works entitle them to permanent honors. The man who has added to the sum total of human knowledge, and thus has benefited and uplifted his fellowmen, is greater than he who has waded through the blood of slaughter to a throne.

Let the great men and women of peace be exalted. Let scientists, inventors, authors, painters, musicians, actors, orators, statesmen—let them all have anniversary commemorations.

Prevent Water Brigandage

Fresno Republican
What was originally a very beneficent provision of public law, seizure of private property on due process of law and payment, is being used more and more as a means of interterritorial brigandage. The fight of citizens of Owens valley against the proposal in the Legislature that would enable Los Angeles to seize all the remaining water rights in that valley should be sustained.

Not so much to help Owens valley. That territory is already eaten up by the Los Angeles encroachment. All that can be done for Owens valley now is to assure a decent compensation to the remaining farmers and the business men whose activities were based on the farm life of the valley.

But this Los Angeles proposal should be defeated to prevent marauding of public institutions all over the state.

It should not be possible for the city of Fresno, for instance, in the effort to obtain more water, to go into Madera county and seize the water rights of farmers there now.

Yet that is just what this Los Angeles proposal would permit.

Wants Electric Stop Signals

Riverside Enterprise
The city council, according to the news columns, is being importuned to place additional "stop" buttons in Riverside streets. The buttons help to do away with accidents, although their warning, admonition is often overlooked by careless or lawless motorists.

But in the downtown business section Riverside ought to have three or four traffic lights such as are installed in Los Angeles. The writer on an eastern trip last summer found that nearly every town in the Middle West and Atlantic Seaboard of Riverside's size was equipped with electric "stop" and "go" traffic signals. Seventh and Eighth streets at their intersection with Main on busy days are decidedly congested, with traffic snarls becoming more and more frequent.

The expense of a few electric signals would not be prohibitive, and the upkeep would be practically nil. The advertising value would be considerable, also, indicating that Riverside is taking on metropolitan airs and is leading other inland Southern California cities.

WHY IS BALDNESS?—NOBODY KNOWS

The average scalp has at least a hundred thousand hairs, if they are all there. In few instances in modern life, however, has any man all that he started with, and indeed many women are inclined to think they have lost a few.

There are two reasons, according to experts, why the hair falls out. In the first class of cases, the hair disappears because of some infection of the scalp or disease. In the second large group of cases the cause is not determined.

The experts say that the baldness is idiopathic, which means that nobody knows the real reason; the hair just falls out and that is the end of it. In such cases, the hair may fall out all at once all over the body, or it may fall out in large or small patches. After a severe fever, there is a tendency for the hair to fall out, usually about three months after the time the fever was at its highest.

There are all sorts of superstitions prevalent about the hair. It takes a hair about six weeks to grow one inch, and cutting the end does not improve its growing qualities. Cutting sometimes will remove the split ends. The hair of various persons varies in thickness from 150 to an inch, if laid side by side, to as many as 500 to an inch.

There is no hollow tube running the length of the hair. It is not nourished by any fluid in it, but by the blood that comes to its roots. The hair above the skin surface is a spine of horn which is even oiled from without.

This fact may come as a surprise to those persons who have been induced to have the hair singed in order to seal up the end. Singeing the hair is a valuable procedure only for the barber who does the singeing.

The hair has no more sap than a buggy whip. If the hair needs oiling, it may be done from without, using some of the many pure grease preparations or creams that are available for the purpose.

The Entertainment Committees Get Under Way

Winning Attention

Pomona Bulletin

There is a little old bit of doggerel that may be familiar to many of our readers, but people who are looking for success in business ought to read it over about every month, as it conveys a truth.

"The man who has something he must sell,

And simply tells it down the well,

Will never gain so many dollars,

As the one who climbs a tree and hollers."

That homely bit of verse brings out the principle that in order to make a success of marketing any form of commodity or service, people must somehow manage to attract attention. A person's service may be perfectly good in every way, one may understand every detail of the goods which he is selling, or the thing he is trying to do, but if the public does not know about those goods or services, that experience and fidelity are largely thrown away. People are likely to just simply pass such a one by. One must have some plan by which the notice of the people is called to one's work, and information is given about what one is doing and offering.

A great many people have failed in business because they fell down at just this one point. They somehow lacked the energy or aggressiveness to go ahead and call attention to their work. They had the idea that if they waited long enough the attention of the public would be drawn to them. But someone was always getting in ahead of them, and much of the trade they had would probably drift away with them.

It is strange how many business concerns will fall down in this way, in many cases because they lack faith enough in themselves to advertise their goods. If they thoroughly believed in the merit of what they have to offer, it would seem as if they would feel some enthusiasm about it, and be determined that people should know what they have to offer and be given full information as to the merit of their merchandise and services.

THRENODY

I used to love to watch the spring-time creeping,
To hear the tinkle of an April rain;
To see the vernal green o'er hill-sides sweeping—
I never want to see the spring again.
I never knew that spring could bring me sorrow,
I never knew that tears could form her rain;
No more I wait for April's glad tomorrow—
I never want to see the spring again.

This sweet new angel, guide her feet,
That she may never miss or know
The loss of mother-love below.
Please, God send to the mother here

New courage and new vision clear,
Again with love her heart imbue,
This mother of an angel new.
And afterwhile, somehow, some way,

Give to the driver peace, I pray.

A Prose Poem from Our Lyrical Contributor

It is so beautiful after the rains. There are all kinds of smells that only our own California seems to have.

The sky is so blue, the air so balmy, the grass so green, the children so happy . . . Barefoot children this time of year! Think of it!

The blackbirds in my garden are chattering and I hear a meadow lark. On the hillside are the foot-steps of Him, wherever you see the wildflowers blooming profusely. The soft gray mountain tops and the blue skies blend into one misty cloud as I watch from my window. Nature is at her loveliest.

JUST ANOTHER PATCH.

"I WANTS YOU ALL DE TIME"
There's an echo of a coon-song That haunts me day by day,
Though the time and place I heard it

Seem very far away:
Forgotten are its melody,
Its cadence and its rhyme,
And this much only clings to me—"I wants you all de time."

And the pathos of that longing Finds a sure response in me,
And its homely, simple measure Strikes a chord of sympathy,
And the coon-song, (though it's ragtime)

Like a harmony sublime,
Tunes my heart-beats to the measure,
"I wants you all de time!"

O the ardor of that wooing In the simple, plaintive song
Thrills me with its tender yearning,

And it haunts me all day long—
And I envy those dark lovers
Of the coon-song's ragged rhyme,
Who, face to face could whisper—"I wants you all de time!"
